Hits Mrs. Roosevelt Stand for Divorce

Sharply criticizing Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for describing divorce as an "accepted fact," Mrs. Charles Feehan, president of the League for Catholic Women, today told 800 delegates that the President's wife "ought to have regard for decency."

Mrs. Feehan spoke before the two-day conference of the Catholic Congress in St. Clement's Church, Boylston street. She said:

"I believe it as most unfortunate and unfair for the wife of the President to make such pronouncements.

"I refer to the remarks of Mrs. Roosevelt in which she says divorce is an accepted fact. I wish to say that a large number of American citizens are not of the same opinion.

"I believe we have the right to look to the President's wife

Reds Defy U. S. In Harvard Drive

Openly defying federal mail regulations, a deluge of Communist propaganda, with a personal message from the nation's Communist chieftain, Earl Browder, today flooded Harvard University's seven principal dormitories.

Ostensibly urging the 2100 students to participate in tomorrow's "peace" strike on Boston Common, the four-page pamphlets pleaded for enrollment in the Young Communist league.

P. O. INSPECTION ON

On orders of Acting Postmaster Crayton of Cambridge, mailmen, making their routine morning deliveries, confiscated all pamphlets which remained in the mail boxes.

Faces Alimony Pay Cut—Mrs. Mildred B. Sheeline, Cambridge socialite, who failed in contempt proceedings she brought against her Federal street broker ex-husband, Paul D. Sheeline, and had her alimony cut from $300 to $180 a month, may have her payments slashed even further, if Sheeline has his way. Mrs. Sheeline was the broker's second wife. She charges he is $1995 in arrears. Story on Page 6.

Body of Minister's Wife Found on Cape

ORLEANS, April 26—Discovery of the body of Mrs. Alfred Snively, 51, wife of a Whitinsville minister, in an Eastham creek led to an investigation today by District Attorney William C. Crossley.

She disappeared yesterday from the family summer cottage, near Boat Meadow creek, where the body was found today. She was a Wellesley graduate.

State police, coastguards, CCC boys and volunteers, aided by planes, searched throughout the day and night for her.

More than an hour after the body had been located searchers were unable to remove it from a deep hole in the creek. Meanwhile, a medical examiner was summoned.

Monsignor Pace Dies in Capital

WASHINGTON, April 26 (INS)—Monsignor Edward A. Pace, 76, vice-rector emeritus of Catholic University, who did the foundation research work for the Catholic Encyclopedia, died in Providence Hospital here today.

Full Jewish Purge In Austria Urged

VIENNA, April 26 (AP)—A four year plan to eliminate the Jews from Austrian life was advocated today by the Vienna edition of the Voelkischer Beobachter. (The Berlin edition of this paper is Adolf Hitler's organ.)

"In 1942 the Jewish element in Vienna must be extinguished," the paper said.

"No store, no factory shall be under Jewish management, and by that time no Jew shall have an opportunity to earn money in Austria, except in purely Jewish communities, where Jews may eat up their money and wait until they die."

WIDE BAN

According to this plan, "persons who can not prove Aryan ancestry of three generations shall not be permitted to be film actors, authors, composers, musicians, physicians except within their own Jewish community."

"Austrian industry and the money market shall be freed of Jews and Jewish influence. This can be achieved by means of Germany's control of raw materials."

The newspaper suggested Jews could emigrate to "any country willing to receive them."

"It would be the duty of a league of nations to send emigrated Jews to Madagascar or the Gran Chaco or other places," the Voelkischer Beobachter continued.

CITES ROOSEVELT

"We cannot take seriously Roosevelt's appeal to the world to permit Jews to enter as long as the United States continues its own racial quotas for immigrants."

One Vienna racial research official estimated this plan would affect over 200,000 money earners in Austria and 450,000 more old men and women and children.

U. S. Hints Italy, Japan Pact Violators

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The State Department implied to the cHuse foreign affairs committee today that it believed Italy and Japan had violated international treaties in operations against Ethiopia.

Chairman McReynouds (D.) of Tenessee read to the committee a leter from Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, which cited previous departmental expressions of its views on the observance of international obligations.

After hearing the letter read, thecommittee voted unanimously that it be tabled. The resolve asked the President to specify what nations in recent years violated treaties.

Welles said it had been assumed that the Scott resolution was not intended to include failure of other governments to maintain payments of money to the United States under many existing agreemnts. But he aded, without naming them, that 15 nations are in default or in arears on such payments.

On the Senate side of the Capitol today, Senator Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska, usually an ardent administration supporter, said he would vote against President Roosevelt's naval expansion bill.

Baby Left Alone Burned by Blast

PORTLAND, April 26—Two-year-old Francis J. Smith was seriously burned at his home here today when an oil stove exploded next to his crib.

The child, adopted son of Joseph Smith, was alone in the house.

Britain Curbs Wave Of Nazi Immigrants

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—An alarming increase in foreign domestics in Britain led the government today to curb the flow of workers from Austria and Germany.

Through her ambassador to Berlin, Sir Neville Henderson, Britain notified Germany she would discontinue on May 21 the practice of admitting Germans without visas, and that after May 2, holders of Austrian passports will need British visas to enter Britain.

De Valera Lauds U. S. Pact Aid

LONDON, April 26—England and Eire today moved forward, hand in hand, toward a new era of mutual trust and prosperity. Their long blood-spattered dispute ended with signing of a sweeping Anglo-Irish friendship today.

Prime Minister Chamberlain, whose pacification policy thus attained another milestone on the heels of the Anglo-Italian accord, iffixed his signature for Britain.

TRIBUTE TO AMERICA

Text of the agreement revealed that agreement has been reached on every issue between the two countries, except the problem of Ireland's partition into two entities, Eire and Ulster.

De Valera paid tribute to America's role in the reconciliation. He said:

"I am aware that the friendly interest of the American nation in ending the age-old quarrel between our two peoples has been an important factor in making this agreement possible."

KENNEDY SEES LEADER

American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy called on De Valera at his hotel here this afternoon, ostensibly to thank him for entertaining Mrs. Kennedy and one of their sons when they visited Dublin last summer.

The treaty is divided into three agreements.

The first provides unconditional withdrawal of all British troops from Eire and the return to Eire of several Irish fortifications.

The second states Eire will pay $50,000,000 to England in final settlement of the defaulted Irish land annuities and other clealms.

The third agreement calls for entry of Eire's goods into the United Kingdom free of customs tariffs.

Fear Hitler Plot In Czech Demands

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

Copyright, 1938, by International News Service

LONDON, April 26 — The fast-approaching showdown between Adolf Hitler and Czechoslovakia today threw a dark cloud over Europe's peace prospects.

In the midst of the developing emergency Great Britain and France made ready to conclude this week a new understanding that will amount to a tight, formidable military alliance.

Deep concern over the immediate future spread swiftly in British official circles when dispatches from Berlin brought word that the highest German Nazi quarters completely approve of the eight "autonomy" demands uttered by Konrad Henlein, Czech Sudeten German leader.

WITH HITLER O. K.?

Every chancellery in Europe today fastened an anxious gaze on Prague, where President Benes wrestled with the explosive question of how to combat Henlein's demands, which apparently were sanctioned by Chancellor Hitler.

Any sudden move by Hitler to solve by means of a coup the festering problem of Czechoslovakia's 3,500,000 Germans would be more than likely to upset Prime Minister Chamberlain's applecart—the projected four-power security pact.

It would render remote the chances of bringing Germany into a camp of peace with Britain, France and Italy.

SOVIET TO OBJECT

Henlein in effect demanded an end to Czechoslovakia's military ties with Soviet Russia and France.

While France, leaning on England for security, might not object to loss of Czechoslovakia as an ally, the Soviet Union would not be expected to yield on that point.

To Russia the alliance with Czechoslovakia is of utmost value because it serves as a cushion against any Nazi menace that might point toward the Soviet's rich Ukrainian grain fields.

Czechs Ban Nazi State In Nation

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, April 26 (INS)—Disturbed by anti-Jewish disorders, President Eduard Benes and his Czechoslovakian government aides made it clear today they will oppose Nazi demands for a German state within this country's borders.

Replying sharply to the demands of Konrad Henlein, leader of the Nazi German Sudeten party for German autonomy and for a pro-German foreign policy, a semi-official communique said:

"Henlein's demands for a change of the country's foreign policy is unacceptable to the Czechoslovakian government.

"Under no circumstances can there be any question of a change in the country's system of alliances . . . The government will continue unperturbed on its path of seeking a solution of the republic's national problems through competition of the minority . . . statute."

27 1-2 Per Cent Tax Hits Britain

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—The British government jolted the nation today by boosting the income tax from 25 per cent to 27½ per cent to help pay the costs of the staggering rearmament program.

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the Exchequer, in his annual budget speech before a shocked House of Commons, announced the income tax would be raised from five shillings in the pound to five shillings sixpence (from $1.25 to $1.37½ in $5.00).

Pope's Relapse Denied by Vatican

VATICAN CITY, April 26 (INS)—Reports that Pope Pius has suffered a new relapse in his illness were denied by authoritative Vatican quarters today. It was stated the pontiff is holding his usual audiences.

Guam 'Suicide Outpost' of U. S.

Near Jap Islands, Far From Home

Karl H. von Wiegand, dean of American war correspondents, has just returned from an aerial survey tour of the Far East and Pacific islands. He tells today why the American island of Guam is a "suicide outpost."

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND

Copyright, 1938, by International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26—The palm-fringed "suicide outpost" of Guam, 4401 miles from San Francisco, is destined to play an important though most likely a tragic role in the event of the United States becoming involved in war in the Far East.

Guam is now being strengthened. Fifteen up-to-date bombers of the naval air force, I am told by naval and marine officers, are to be stationed here in the near future.

Next to the Philippines, Guam is the farthest west naval and marine station of the U. S. navy in the Pacific. That is, on American territory.

If the independence granted the Philippines is not declined with thanks by the Filipinos, as they now talk in Manila, Guam will be America's farthest outpost. It is 4000 miles west of Honolulu. Strategically it is important in the plans of the U. S. naval board in Washington.

Surrounded as it is by islands occupied by the Japanese, the nearest, Rota Island, only 80 miles distant, its fate already is practically determined in the event of war between America and Japan; Guam will scarcely be able to do more than put up a heroic but losing defense, hence the term "suicide outpost."

Guam is a lovely spot. The island is about 30 miles long, averages six and a half miles in width and has an area of 208 square miles. The population is just above 20,000.

Guam is ruled, governed and run by the U. S. Navy. There is just one chief and that is the naval officer designated by the U. S. Navy Department in Washington as governor.

Curley Son Denies Rift

Paul Brands Reports as 'Idle Gossip'

The rumored separation of Paul G. Curley, and the former Marie Phillips, his 16-month bride, is but the figment of idle gossip mongers.

The radio announcer, son of former Governor Curley, today explained the five-week absence of his wife in New York and asserted she would be home at their Jamaicaway home within a few days.

"I have just returned from a 10-day visit with Marie in New York," young Curley said. "We are still very happy and it is not true that there is any trouble."

"CAN QUOTE ME"

"The report of separation is just idle gossip," said Curley, "and there is not a word of truth in it. And you can quote me as saying that."

The pretty Mrs. Curley, who was known as Lillian Duval when she reigned as a featured dancer in swank New York nightspots, has been in her native city for the past five weeks, and was reported to have been seen at some of the clubs where she was a former entertainer.

"I know my wife has been away for a long time," Curley said at his Jamaicaway apartment. "But her absence doesn't spell trouble. She has been detained by illness in her family, who live in Washington Heights. That ought to answer the gossip mongers."

SURPRISE FAMILY

It was at a New York night club where young Curley met the pretty dancer, more than two years ago. The following Christmas, he astonished his family by sending a telegram announcing his marriage in New York. He was then a student at Georgetown.

On Christmas afternoon, the young couple arrived by plane from New York, and were welcomed at the Curley home in Jamaicaway. The wedding was performed at Holy Cross Church in New York, with the bridegroom's brother, Leo Curley, as best man. Later, the newlyweds set up housekeeping in a Jamaicaway apartment.

SCOFFS AT RUMORED RIFT—Paul G. Curley, son of ex-Governor James M. Curley, and his bride of 16 months, the former Marie Phillips, stage beauty. Reports of a marital split between them is denied by young Curley. He blames "gossipers" for spreading story, and says his wife is being detained in New York by illness. She is at home of her parents.

First Lady Here Friday

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt will pay a whirlwind visit to Boston Friday to speak at Simmons College, visit two hospitals and look in on a federal arts project.

The President's wife will also speak at a luncheon on Saturday at Fall River, commemorating the 50th anniversary of the city's welfare association, before hurrying to Hyde Park, N. Y., for a week-end with her family.

At Washington, Mrs. Roosevelt today commended to prospective newlyweds the controversial film, "The Birth of a Baby," although she turned thumbs down on the suggestion that children be permitted to see the film.

Aide of Simone Held in $10,000

LOS ANGELES, April 26 (AP)—Sandra Martin, former secretary to Simone Simon, was held under $10,000 bond today for hearing Friday on a charge she defrauded the actress of nearly $20,000.

Group at Harvard Raps Conant Plan

A strong protest against President James Bryant Conant's "limit college enrollment" program for Harvard and a possible recommendation for building a palatial new dormitory were revealed today as a specially chosen student committee was announced.

That President Conant's plan would be fought was expected as a detailed report on the new building was being prepared.

Secrecy was maintained about the work, but it became known that the committee is headed by Richard Flinn of Niagara Falls, New York, N. Y.

The construction of a new house for about 300 students, with a library, lounge rooms, and dining hall within the unit, may be recommended.

HEADS HOSPITAL

FITCHBURG, April 26 — Miss Mary Anderson, Carney hospital, South Boston graduate, today was named supervisor of the Burbank hospital here, to succeed Miss Mary Murphy.

2 Leap to Flee Lowell Fire

LOWELL, April 26—Lieutenant Frank Broadbent of Engine 7 was cut on the face and hands by flying glass and two owners of the Den Chinese restaurant leaped from a window today during a two-alarm fire in a store block near Lowell railroad station.

The Chinese, who escaped injury in the $10,000 blaze, were John and Frank Goon. As the fire blazed, Boston & Maine trains were delayed nearly an hour.

KNIFE KILLS SKUNK

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—A 30-foot "sea gangster"—a shark with a mouth as big as an automobile wheel—was killed with a pocket knife by a fisherman in Weymouth Bay.

Police Signal Wired to Song

A two-way music box puzzled Cambridge police today, when Officer Edward Tierney, operating a switchboard connecting with all police signal boxes, plugged in on "My Wild Irish Rose" instead of the officer on the other end.

Finally a voice said:

"I hear music. Is this police headquarters?"

"This is police headquarters," replied Officer Tierney, "and I think we must be nuts."

Town Shortage Set at $62,129

LAWRENCE, April 26 (AP)—District Attorney Hugh A. Cregg said today he had received from Theodore N. Waddell of the division of accounts of the state department of corporations and taxes a report that there was a shortage of $62,129.34 in the Salisbury town treasury.

Walter R. Shute, former town tax collector, is awaiting trial next month in connection with the shortage.

Warn Cost $100,000 to Somerville

Reuben L. Lurie, counsel for 13 of 17 Somerville married school teachers ousted by action of the school committee, today declared his clients will fight to the bitter end for their jobs. He predicted court litigation will cost the city of Somerville $100,000 over a two-year period.

"If the city carries this action forward," Lurie declared, "the courts will reverse it in the end. Somerville will not only have to pay costs but there will be the additional expense, roughly $60,000, of back pay for the teachers when they are reinstated. I figure that will come about two years from now."

MAYOR LYNCH PLEASED

The school committee voted five to two against employment of married women teachers. Mayor John M. Lynch, who previously announced his intention to drive all married women from city employ if husbands were able to support them, sponsored the action.

Dr. Edith L. Hurd, school committeewoman, opposed the rule, declaring:

'Dismissal of one competent teacher will work a hardship, while irreparable harm will be caused by dismissing a group."

Dr. Edwin A. Shaw, school committeeman, doubted if the action of the board was legal.

HE SEES DISASTER

"We are inviting disaster to go ahead," he warned.

Mayor Lynch retorted that the courts could decide the legality.

Opposition to Mayor Lynch's proposal came from the Somerville branches of the Zonta Club and the League of Women Voters.

The effect of the rule is to cause dismissal of married women teachers unless they prove a legal separation from their husbands, or physical or mental inability to support them.

Hearings will be given those married teachers who wish to explain their situations.

Notices of dismissal cannot be sent out until the school board takes another vote at its meeting May 20. By a tie vote at their last meeting they refused to send out the notices until they had first considered the matter in secret session.

Fine WPA Men For Gambling

Four Brockton WPA workers were fined $5 each today in Quincy court for gambling on the road at the Naval Ammunition Depot in Hingham.

Two others in the alleged dice game, played while waiting for a bus, were discharged. Cases of two more were filed.

Harvard Men Dynamos In Busy Idle Hours

What Harvard men do in their spare time turns out to be quite a variety of things, returns from a Harvard Crimson questionnaire disclosed today.

But some Harvard men are just too lazy to do anything in their idle hours and those hours remain just that, the lads answered frankly.

However, 85 per cent of Harvard upper classmen take part in some extra-curricular activity, according to the Crimson, with House athletics and activities largely responsible for the high percentage.

Only 25 students out of 800 who said they had taken part in activities, said they were sorry they had done so.

Of the 932 students who turned in coherent responses to the poll, 179 acclaimed athletics as the most worthwhile activity.

There were 154 who voted for publications, 41 for social work, 36 for music, 33 for managing, 22 for studies and 20 for dramatics.

Seventy-eight considered activities important in getting jobs after graduation, while 44 checked "because I felt I should do something which could be listed in the album."

Avery Guilty Of Bribery

With "regret," Judge Harold P. Williams in Dedham Superior Court, today found Edward Avery, Braintree selectman for 19 years, guilty on three counts of accepting bribes totalling $350. It was a jury waived trial.

Judge Williams found Avery not guilty on two other counts of accepting bribes. District-Attorney Edward R. Dewing declared he would move for sentence Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Avery was found guilty of accepting $200 from Dr. Max Pearlstein for his appointment as town physician; a $100 from Thomas Tyson, Jr., and $50 from Wallace Wilson, both for liquor licenses. The two counts on which Aver was found not guilty were also in connection with liquor licenses.

Horse Bolts; Perils Scores

Jack Berman, 32, of Rosseter street, Dorchester, the driver, was hurled from his seat and pinned beneath the wreckage of the bakery wagon when it overturned. Awaiting arrival of police rescuers, Berman asked a pedestrian for a cigarette and then fainted. At City Hospital, he was found suffering from concussion of the brain, a fractured right lower leg, contusions and abrasions.

Oil Concern To Tell Tax Facts in Ads

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Stockholders of Texas Corporation at their meeting today unanimously passed a resolution authorizing officers of the company to embark upon a newspaper advertising campaign "to tell the facts" about business problems in relation to taxation.

The motion was made by . Newcomb Blackman, a stockholder. Previously he recommended that the corporation and other large companies take full page ads in newspapers throughout the country so that "big business can tell its story." He said:

"Get the facts home to the public. Don't attack anybody. Just give the facts."

He made his remarks after T. Rieber, chairman, had told another stockholder, B. F. Castle, that in 1937 the corporation paid $104,000,000 in taxes, which he said was twice the total of all salaries paid.

Rieber reported that the March quarter earnings of the company were equal to 56 cents a share, compared with $1 in the 1937 quarter.

2 More Quizzed In Dolan Probe

Two more witnesses were questioned by Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle today in connection with the contempt charges against former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan and others.

Doyle said he was "busy preparing the case" and that he would try to go to trial "this week." As yet he has not filed answers to a motion for particulars brought by Dolan's counsel.

Others named in contempt petitions are J. Walter Quinn, former Representative Dinsmore of East Boston and Harold Simpson, former stock broker. The petitions alleged attempted tampering with a jury.

Contest Over $6500 Will Ends

The contest over the $6500 estate of Mrs. Margaret A. Splaine of Winthrop was ended in Suffolk Court today at the request of counsel for both sides who said they hoped "a settlement would be reached soon."

Mrs. Splaine, 75 years old when she died, left the bulk of her estate to Paul Tambakis, former Quincy grocery store clerk. Mrs. Mary F. Curry of Charlestown, first cousin to Mrs. Splaine, contested the will.

Brin Warns U. S. Of 'Isms' Peril

Americans must not allow false and selfish demagogues and foreign "isms" to pollute our national life, Alexander Brin, editor and publisher of the Jewish Advocate, today declared at a luncheon of the Everett Kiwanis Club.

"It is imperative that we keep the American scene wholesome," Brin declared, "and that the American air be kept clean from insidious propaganda of foreign 'isms' aiming to destroy our national unity and set groups of our people against each other in prejudice and hate."

6000 From Three Faiths Meet in N. Y.

NEW YORK, April 26—More than 6000 Catholics, Jews and Protestants gathered in the First Brotherhood Day ever held here, last night in the 71st Regiment Armory. They reaffirmed their loyalty to the religious principles upon which American democracy was founded, and banded together against the pagan creeds of Communism, Nazism and Fascism.

Brotherhood Day, proclaimed by Mayor LaGuardia and the city council, was inspired by a signed editorial which William Randolph Hearst published on Sunday, February 28.

"There is greater work to be done in the world in behalf of righteousness and religion, justice and tolerance, than any one church can accomplish," he wrote.

And then he asked:

"Cannot all the churches unite in brotherhood to make its accomplishment absolutely sure?"

The answer, a heartfelt affirmative, came last night in the Armory.

State Solicitor-General Henry Epstein spoke for Attorney-General Bennett, leading Catholic layman, who is ill.

Tax Commissioner Hubert Delaney spoke for the Association for Advancement of Colored People, and Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson of Temple Emanuel, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. O'Brien, rector of Our Lady of Victory Church, and former U. S. District Attorney Charles S. Tuttle also spoke.

Man, Stepson Badly Slashed

Elijah Murchison, 50, was found to be suffering from lacerations of the abdominal wall and the scalp, while the tendons of his left thumb had been severed.

Jackie Gets 2 Setbacks in Suit for Cash

LOS ANGELES, April 26 (INS)—Jackie Coogan and his wife, Betty Grable, sat in their home today and pondered the next move in Jackie's suit for an accounting of his earnings against his mother and step-father, after receiving two decisive setbacks.

The major blow came in the form of a statement of his attorneys from the board of tax appeals in Washington, D. C., which announced that "The Kid's" parents had never relinquished the rights to his earnings and had a legal claim on them.

The board disclosed the Elder Coogan's attempts to pay the taxes for his son's salary of $200 a week, for the salary of Mrs. Coogan, now Mrs. Arthur Bernstein, as an officer of Jackie Coogan Productions, and for his own income on separate returns were denied by the government.

Then he learned that the Coogan-Bernstein estate was given an estimated value of approximately $600,000 instead of the $4,000,000 Jackie claims he was worth.

"That's quite a difference, isn't it?" he grinned. "I guess the depression accounts for the shrinkage."

John E. Biby, appointed by the court to make an inventory of the assets now held by Coogan's mother and stepfather, refused to give an exact accounting of his audit. He indicated the estate had suffered considerably through shrinkage.

Some Swap! Zoo What?

The Franklin Park Zoo will shortly exchange its 16-year-old emu, valued at $250, for a three-year-old aoudad, valued at $375, now owned by Hans Ehmler of Hoosick Falls, N. Y., Mayor Tobin announced today.

An aoudad is a North African wild sheep and an emu is a bird, closely related to the ostrich.

VFW to Entertain National Leaders

The Massachusetts department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will play host to Scott P. Squyres of Oklahoma, national commander-in-chief, and Mrs. Laurie Schertle of Oakland, Cal., national auxiliary president, when they arrive here the latter part of this week for an official visit.

Mrs. Schertle will be feted at a breakfast at the Parker House Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Squyres will arrive in Boston early Saturday morning and will be honored guest at a breakfast, attended by Mayor Tobin, at the Parker House.

Broker to Ask Alimony Cut, Owes $1995

Contempt proceedings brought against him by the second of his three wives resulted today in a declaration by Paul D. Sheeline, Federal street investment broker, that he will seek a further reduction in her alimony.

In 1931, Mrs. Mildred B. Sheeline, Cambridge socialite, lost out in contempt proceedings, while Sheeline succeeded in having her alimony cut from $300 to $180 a month.

They were in East Cambridge court again today, but hearing on her new action, in which she charges he is $1995 in arrears, was put over until May 16 after a bench conference.

The couple were married at Nashua, N. H., April 29, 1924, and she won a divorce in October, 1930.

His first wife is now Mrs. Mary Child Sheeline Munroe, formerly of Craigie street, Cambridge, and his third, with whom he is now living on the Boston Post road, Weston, was Mrs. Dorothy Scott Martin of Foster street, Cambridge.

"Mrs. Roosevelt should exert her influence to elevate the code and vision of society. I believe we have the right to expect a little bit of fine taste from the wife of the President.

"ENCOURAGES" REDS

"Surely, pronouncements of that sort are not the weapons with which to fight moral and spiritual apathy already threatening us."

Mrs. Feehan said Mrs. Roosevelt's remarks on divorce were "outright encouragement for Communism."

"Communism is very clever and Communists know that the easiest way to gain a foothold in to destroy the family. That's why Communism hates the church," she added.

Mrs. Feehan then referred to the controversial film, "the Birth of a Baby,' which Mrs. Roosevelt said was not harmful because it was hon honest.

"MORE LOOSENESS"

On this point Mrs. Feehan said:

"There are many functions of the human body that are perfectly honest and natural, but we do not take pictures of them and spread them indiscriminately before the public gaze.

"There was nothing inspirinig about those pictures. It is another example of catering to moral laxity and loose standards."

Asked by reporters to further discuss Mrs. Roosevelt after the speech, Mrs. Feehan commented:

"I think I've said it all. People in high places should be the first to set the example for moral stability. Morals have degenerated enough as it is."

The conference opened today with an invocation by the Rev. Francis L. Phelan, chancellor of the archdiocese. The program is to be devoted to round-table discussions on social and spiritual problems.

Mrs. Feehan, who is from Haverhill, presided over today's meeting which was attended by delegates from all parts of the state.

Russian Raps Sec. Perkins' 'Aid' to Reds

Through the "sympathetic attitude" of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and other high government officials, Communism is gaining a foothold in this country through labor activities.

Communism has a stronger hold in the United States than in any other non-Communistic nation in the world.

Thus spoke Anastase Vonsiatsky, head of the Russian Fascist Party—the "White Russians"—and the king-pin in a world plot to overthrow the Soviet regime.

Accompanied by his Chicago-born wife, one of seven principal heirs to a $50,000,000 fortune, Vonsiatsky arrived today from a Mediterranean cruise aboard the American Export liner Excambion, en route to his home in Thompson, Ct.

"There is a serious threat of Communism in this country," the Russian warned, "and this threat lies with the sympathetic attitude of those high in government affairs.

"Secretary of Labor Perkins has shown in her handling of Harry Bridges' case where her sympathies lie."

Vonsiatsky referred to charges before a Senate committee that Bridges, West Coast labor leader, was a Communist.

distribution around here," Crayton declared.

Chief Postal Inspector John J. Breslin began an immediate investigation. At the same time the seized pamphlets were turned over to Postmaster Peter F. Tague for further scrutiny.

Breslin pointed out that the federal mail violation involved the distribution of pamphlets in mail boxes without paying the required one and one-half cent postage.

According to statute, Breslin stated, whoever knowingly deposits such matter in mail boxes is subject to a $300 fine for each offense.

Three pages of the pamphlet are devoted to seek "means of helping" the Communists in Spain.

Concerning the student "peace" meeting, the pamphlet stated:

"Fellow Students: Strike on April 22. Make this strike the occasion for sacrifice for Spain . . . for the collection of money to provide material help to the Spanish people."

Browder, urging the United States to interfere in behalf of Communist Spain, declared in the pamphlet.

"If we help them, they will do military job for us. If we continue to desert them, we will have no one to blame but ourselves.

"American brotherhood today requires help to the boys of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade (one of the American contingents in Spain)."

Attached to the pamphlet was a coupon for enrollment in the Young Communist League.

Starting with a parade from the Boston University college of liberal arts in Boylston street, Back Bay, Greater Boston students and various organization groups will meet on the Common at noon tomorrow in a "strike against war."

Scheduled speakers include Joseph Coldwell, labor leader, who was imprisoned during the World War for organizing opposition to the war; Rose Pesotta, international vice-president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union; Gertrude Tanneyhill, Simmons College student; Professor Albert S. Coolidge of Harvard, and others.

Bridal Rule Stirs 17 But One Girl Immune

RUSH TO ALTAR—Three pretty employes of Edison Electric Company who plan marriage this month following company edict. They are Ruth Jacobson, Rita Monahan and Ruth Silverman.

While 17 other girls employed by the Boston Edison Company have advanced their wedding dates to hold their jobs, Miss Dorothy O'Brien of Somerville is one girl worker there who really doesn't care.

Miss O'Brien, it was announced today, will be married—after May 1—to Walter E. Struble, Jr., of 31 Puritan road, Somerville, teacher at the John A. Dickerman vocational school in that city.

It will be some time after May 1 that the marriage will take place, and the bride-to-be wasn't going to continue working anyway.

COMPANY ACTS CUPID

But the Edison company unwittingly turned Cupid when it ruled that girl employes who get married after May 1 will be asked to resign.

The ruling was made in the interests of business rather than romance but 17 couples will have stepped altarward before Saturday.

Many of the 17 couples had planned June weddings, but suddenly decided, in the interests of continued employment, to hasten to the altar this week. And company officials suddenly discovered they were due to buy 17 wedding presents before the week was over.

After next Saturday, any girl employe who marries must give her resignation to her superior before expiration of 30 days. Efforts will be made, officials said, to replace these workers with married men who support families.

Among the first to enter the matrimonial lists was Miss Rita Monahan of Montgomery street, who became the bride last Saturday of John Dyer of Cambridge at St. John's Church, Cambridge.

Due to be a bride tomorrow is Miss Ruth Jacobson of Medford, who will wed Howard Ralph of Elaine avenue, Saugus, in the Presbyterian Church of East Boston.

MANY OTHER BRIDES

The marriage of Miss Ruth Silverman of Quincy to Harold Slate, formerly of Chelsea, was also announced yesterday.

Others on the list are:

Helen L. De Voe became Mrs. James McDonald on April 25, Eunice Dorothy McCabe became Mrs. Silva on April 23, Madelaine Pease became Mrs. John Watt on April 16, Patricia Roberts Hartwell became Mrs. Arnold Blake Davis on April 23.

Corinne Staff becomes Mrs. John C. Youngiof on April 29, Laura M. Hamilton became Mrs. Berje David on April 17, Ethel Crocker became Mrs. Vaughn on April 16.

Florence Rudolph becomes Mrs. McKenney on April 30, Ethel Smith became Mrs. Damon on March 31, Clarice Rowell became Mrs. Rich on April 23, Dorothy Austin became Mrs. Hamel on April 24, Claire Marcyes became Mrs. McManus on April 18, Edna Featherstone became Mrs. Slight on April 19, Ruth Jenness became Mrs. Ford on April 23.

DOESN'T WORRY—Dorothy O'Brien of Somerville is one girl worker at Boston Edison Company who would rather become a bride on the day of her choice than keep her job. Her engagement to be married—after the May 1 deadline—to Walter E. Struble, Jr., also of Somerville, was announced today.

Says Wars Won In the Bathtub

Wars are now in the bathtub, P. S. Bailey, North Scituate, a director of the National Association of Master Plumbers today told delegates to the Massachusetts Association of Master Plumbers convention.

He quoted Dr. Hans Zinsser, Harvard biologist who contends that the armies with the fewest germs usually won the battles.

European dictators are more and more emphasizing personal cleanliness among their soldiers and are spending millions of dollars to provide bathing facilities for their citizens, Bailey said.

Brides Rush To Beat R. I. Test Law

PROVIDENCE, April 26 (AP)—Hundreds of couples rushed to Rhode Island marirage bureaus today to beat the new State blood test law to the gun, and those June brides and grooms planning elopements to states without such laws learned there was a catch to that, too.

Dr. Edward A. McLaughlin, public health director, issued regulations covering operation of the new law starting Thursday which made it clear that persons going to Massachusetts or other states to get married can't come back to Rhode Island to live for six months—unless they submit to the Wasserman test.

Although the state fee for the tests is only 50 cents each, many couples getting licenses today said the cost of a private physician was more expensive. They figured a $5 to $6 fee for a marriage under the plan.

Because the tests must be made in a laboratory over a four-day period, Rhode Island will have practically a five-day law after Thursday, Dr. McLaughlin pointed out.

Sniper Jailed; Shot 2 Girls

Walter Coocen, 22, of Prospect Street court, Lynn, was given eight months in the house of correction in Lynn District Court today after he pleaded guilty of having shot two young girls with an air rifle.

Coocen was arrested earlier after Hilton court residents said he fired into a group late yesterday, hitting Jeana Capozzi, 14, above the right eye and Sylvia Villanucci, 12, in the left arm.

Appeals Terms In Larceny Case

Thomas Chekiskey of Washington street, South End, appealed two three-month sentences after he was found guilty of two counts of larceny totalling $15. He was held in $1000 in municipal court today.

Besides two Tremont street attorneys named victims in the complaints, Chekiskey was alleged to have obtained from 12 others sums ranging from $6 to $25 as an 'advance' pending settlement of a ficticious accident.

$65 El Stock Sale Favored By Committee

Retirement of Boston Elevated common stock at $65 a share, resulting in an annual saving of approximately $800,000, was recommended to the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs today by its sub-committee.

Purchase of the stock by the metropolitan district would mean absolute public ownership of the road since the state, in 1931, retired the company's preferred stock.

Governor Hurley recently suggested $60 as a "fair price' for each of the 238,794 shares of common stock outstanding. The common stock went to $52 yesterday while low for the year was $48.50.

State Police Win Praise

Four Massachusetts state police detectives were commended today in general orders issued by Eugene E. McSweeney, commissioner of public safety, for their work in two cases.

Lieutenant Detective John F. Dempsey and Special Officer Sergeant William H. Daley were commended for apprehending Robert Svendseden at Hamilton, Ont., and Jean Baptiste Caron at Waterloo, Quebec, for the murder last August of J. E. Caraway in Pinehurst, N. C.

Lieutenant Detectives Ira C. Taylor and Daniel A. Murphy were praised for tracking down Leon Tuchel and Walter J. Motyka in connection with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Annie Suchocki in Sunderland.

Hearst Paper Finds Irwin Witness

NEW YORK, April 26 (INS)—The New York Journal-American revealed that the paper's representatives had located Samuel Moser, missing key witness against Robert Irwin, and had turned him over to the district attorney's office.

Irwin's attorney sought yesterday unsuccessfully to obtain an immediate trial for the youthful sculptor who surrendered in Chicago last year after the ice-pick murders of beautiful Veronica Gedeon, artists' model, her mother, and Frank Byrnes, a boarder in the Gedeon home. The Irwin move followed revelation that Moser was missing.

The Journal-American said:

"The stocky attendant who guarded the confessed triple slayer at Rockland State Hospital had been sought in vain by District Attorney Dewey's men and New York police for a week.

"This newspaper found him in Stamford, Conn., after an inquiry of only a few hours."

81 Arrive Here On Excambion

Returning from a six weeks' cruise to Mediterranean ports, the American Export liner Excambion, with 81 passengers, docked at the army base today.

Included was a group of government and private communications experts who had attended the three months International Telecommunications Conference, held at Cairo, Egypt.

"Complete isolation and a satisfactory social program are mandatory for eradication of leprosy," declared Dr. Perry Burgess, president of the Leonard Wood Memorial, who returned with Mrs. Burgess.

Dr. Burgess attended the fourth international leprosy conference in Cairo.

Sharks Peril Air Boat Trio

KINGSTON, Jamaica, April 26 (AP)—Three members of the crew of a twin-engined Pan-American flying boat had a narrow escape from sharks when the craft was forced down at sea 30 miles from Jamaica.

Twelve passengers and one member of the crew were taken off by a steamer. The commander and two others remained with their craft. It began to sink and the three launched a collapsible boat.

Then two sharks attacked, missed the men and began fighting each other. The collapsible boat failed and the men had to take to a rubber raft before they were picked up. The plane sank an hour after coming down.

Church Sells Steel Stock 'For Peace'

CONCORD, N. H., April 26—Investments of the New Hampshire Methodist Episcopal Church today were withdrawn from the Bethlehem Steel and the United States Corporations following a vote of trustees at the 109th annual conference.

The trustees voted the withdrawals on the grounds that the companies, in their opinion, "are not in harmoy with the policy of this conference to promote world peace."

Pump-Priming Battle Rages

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 26 (INS)—Bitter conflict within Congress over the administration's recovery drive flared into the open today.

Republicans charged Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins with personally directing a "chain-letter" propaganda campaign through WPA workers to win support for the administration's $4,512,000,000 lend-and-spend program.

Representative Taber of New York, G. O. P. member of the House appropriations committee engaged in drafting the omnibus recovery bill, said he had received more than 50 letters from relief workers in the past week, and placed their origin at the feet of Hopkins.

Hopkins himself could not immediately be reached. A WPA spokesman emphatically denied that the agency was connected with any propaganda campaign.

WIRE-MAIL FIGHT SEEN

Taber's assertions raised the prospect that another wire-and-mail battle may mark consideration of spending legislation as it did on the government reorganization bill.

"The letters I have received have all been identical and in some cases even addressed in the same handwriting," Taber charged.

The solemnity of House proceedings was interrupted yesterday when Majority Leader Rayburn arose to read to the chamber a letter received from an unnamed Detroit worker by President Roosevelt, warning the chief executive that his recovery program was about to be the subject of a "new propaganda" campaign.

Despite charges and counter-charges involving propaganda, the far-reaching recovery program moved ahead today, virtually assured of almost solid support from the overwhelming Democratic majorities in both the Senate and House.

RAIL HELP SOUGHT

On another front, Senator Wheeler (D.) of Montana, determined to gain immediate enactment of legislation to tide railroads over until Congress can provide a more permanent program, scheduled a conference among RFC Chairman Jesse H. Jones, congressional leaders and rail and labor spokesmen, to draft emergency measures.

Indications of the trend of Democratic support to the spending program were epitomized last night when Rep. O'Connor (D.) of New York, who led the revolt against the reorganization bill, told a nation-wide radio audience that he would support the administration's program although opposed to pump priming without assurances to business.

PWA Kickback Fund Charged

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP)—A charge that two Democratic party leaders demanded a million-dollar "kickback" for campaign purposes from architects on the state's huge building program entered Pennsylvania's Democratic primary row today on the heels of a federal inquiry into complaints of "political coercion."

The charge came from Attorney-General Charles J. Margiotti, independent candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, who named the leaders as David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, and Matthew H. McCloskey, head of the party's finance committee.

The Public Works Administration has assigned additional inspectors to projects of Pennsylvania's State Authority, in charge of the $65,000,000 building program, for "PWA's protection."

Hint 3rd Party In Liberal Call

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Governor Philip La Follette's call for a meeting of Liberals at Madison, Wis., Thursday night is exciting lively interest among legislators seeking to ascertain the potential strength of a national third party.

Although there is little expectation that a new party would have countrywide influence in this year's congressional elections, members of Congress are divided over the question of whether the time is ripe for a political realignment.

Senator Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska asserted today that third party advocates should hang back until it is determined whether President Roosevelt will seek another term.

Representative O'Connell (D.) of Montana has contended that the Madison conference would offer an opportunity for liberals to pledge support to the President for a third term.

Thirty-Day Truce In Truck Walkout

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 26 (AP)—A ten-day strike of 900 truck drivers was ended here today after warehousemen and union agreed to a 30-day truce.

The walkout which has kept heavy hauling and delivery throughout the city virtually at a standstill since April 15 came to a conclusion and all chauffeurs were ordered back to work this morning.

Millions Are Fighting That Tired Feeling

Some people are always tired, no matter how much sleep they get. Often they are just suffering from constipation. For early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, sour stomach and its resultant bad breath, mental depression, the aggravation of most skin blemishes, can all be caused by it.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. Vain Fight

Boston Evening American Photo

LEGAL SNARL — Because the late Judge Edward B. O'Brien failed to file a report on "material facts" before his death, pretty Mrs. Gladys Fudge was forced to start her separate maintenance action against Harold Fudge all over again in Salem probate court, which she is pictured leaving.

Judge's Death Voids Decree

Although granted separate support last December from tall, blonde and handsome Harold Fudge, Lynn machinist, the death of Probate Judge Edward B. O'Brien of Salem made it necessary today for Mrs. Gladys Fudge, 25, of Lynn, to conduct her fight all over again.

When she brought Fudge into Salem Probate Court today, alleging contempt of court because he was eight weeks behind on $8 a week payments to her, Judge Harry R. Dow vacated the December decree.

This was because Judge O'Brien had not filed a requested "report on material facts" on which he based his support decree.

Compromise Draft Near in Revenue Bill

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—A compromise draft of Senate and House revenue bills neared completion today after decisions by a joint conference committee to increase the liquor tax and eliminate a proposal to tax future federal securities issues.

A member reported that the committee had voted to retain a House-approved increase from $2 to $2.25 per gallon in the hard liquor tax. The levy has been variously estimated to provide between $19,000,000 and $30,000,000,000 a year.

A Senate bill proposal by Senator Borah (R. Idaho) to make the interest from future government security issues taxable was stricken, conferees said. This was done, they asserted, because removal of tax exemptions will be considered separately in line with recommendations made yesterday by President Roosevelt.

Roosevelt asked that tax exemptions be removed from both federal and state securities and salaries.

The joint conference committee approved an amendment sponsored by Chairman William O. Douglas of the Securities Commission to ease taxes on utility holding companies.

Wage-Hours Bill Faces Shelving

WASHINGTON, April 26 (INS)—Unless pivotal members reverse their stand, the new national minimum wage and maximum hours bill will be shelved by the House rules committee until the next session of Congress.

This was disclosed today in a confidential poll. Opponents of the legislation picked Friday as the day for a showdown in the rules committee.

U. S. Bars Plane Secrets From Foreign Powers

(Copyright, 1938)

WASHINGTON, April 26 (INS)—Determined to maintain the United States air forces in a position of world superiority, the Army and Navy high commands will block sale of any of its new developments in war planes to a foreign power, it was learned today.

A new policy of iron-clad stringency has been adopted by the two defense forces to prevent any possibility of a foreign nation benefiting by the advanced secret designs of new fighting ships and bombers.

The War Department, International News Service learned, positively has turned official thumbs down on efforts of foreign nations to obtain through private American manufacturers a copy of the army's sensational long-range bomber, known as the "flying fortress."

This huge four-engined bomber, together with its newer companion, twice as large as the original "fortress," is regarded by the army's air experts as the greatest bombing and fighting ship ever developed.

Japan especially, and Soviet Russia and Germany to a lesser degree, have over a period of several years bought the latest type of war planes this government would let go in order to take them apart, copy and reproduce them.

$200,000 Suit Against Widow Continues

SPRINGFIELD, April 26—The interior decorator who Fred McDonald, 58, charges broke up amicable relations between him and Mrs. Mattie C. Long, 78-year-old wealthy socialite widow, was scheduled to take the stand as a witness today in McDonald's $200,000 breach of contract suit against his former employer.

McDonald, former coachman and chauffeur for Mrs. Long, widow of the late Judge Charles L. Long, alleges she promised his $45 a week for life and then dismissed him in 1934.

His relations with the aged widow, he testified, were more like that of a nurse and patient than those of a chauffeur.

TELLS OF RING

"I took care of her as a nurse would," he said. "In cold weather she had me put on her heavy under wear and later remove it."

The very first day he entered her employ, McDonald testified, Mrs. Long placed a wedding ring on his finger and said:

"You belong to me."

When she hired Richard Fish Terry a former interior decorator as her private secretary, relations between them cooled, McDonald said.

"Things were not getting along too good after Terry came to work," McDonald testified. "He began to butt in too much. I told Mrs. Long that he was butting in, but she said not to worry—that I was still the 'boss'."

TERRY SUBPOENAED

Terry, who has been subpoenaed as a witness by McDonald, was seated in the courtroom during the latter's testimony.

Also present in the courtroom was McDonald's wife, who sat by his side when he was not on the witness stand.

McDonald testified that Mrs. Long paid him $30,000 at the time of his dismissal in August, 1934, but contended the money was to satisfy an agreement made by Judge Long.

Here's the Cute Pup You May Win--So Hurry!

LET'S SEE YOUR LETTERS—This cute little puppy is awaiting a new master. He'll be awarded to boy or girl who writes the best letter on "Be Kind to Animals Week" and sends it to the Boston Evening American. Now who's going to be his lucky little pal? Just write that letter and maybe it will be you.

Somebdoy wants a cute little pedigreed cocker spaniel because the letters are beginning to pour in.

In line with the nation-wide observance of "Be Kind to Animals Week," some boy or girl reader of the Boston Evening American is going to win this dog by merely writing the best letter on the subject: "Why We Should Be Kind to Animals."

Any boy or girl in New England who is UNDER 15 YEARS OLD is eligible to contest for this pup, a descendant of the famous "Flush," whom you may have seen in the movie "The Barretts of Wimpole street," with Norma Shearer and Charles Laughton.

SIMPLE RULES

Here are the simple rules: Write it to "Be Kind to Animals Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston.

Note plainly on your letter your name, age, address, school, school grade and the name of your teacher. Mail your letter so it will carry a postmark not later than midnight next Saturday, which is the deadline.

To the writer of the best letter will be awarded cute little, eight-weeks-old Kresshingham's "Robinhood," the black and white spaniel that will prove a real pet for the fortunate youngster.

This merry pup has "Robin" for a nickname and is being raised at the fine Kresshingham Kennels in South Hingham, owned by Mrs. Herman Kress. She specializes in the cocker spaniel breed.

"HIGH" FAMILY TREE

Robin's ma was "Capeway Katrina" and his dad "Kresshingham's Taffy." His grandfather was the famous champion "Idahurst Roderic," winner of many medals as one of the best cocker spaniels in the country, and "Flush" of the movies was his grand-uncle.

The puppy weighs nine pounds, is smart, full of life, likes to play, will love the water in common with his breed and can easily be trained as a field dog. He'll be a real pet.

So sit down and compose that letter right away. You may win "Kresshingham's Robinhood" for your own.

Kane Business Drive Lauded

Kane's, one of America's largest furniture institutions, was praised by national business leaders today for stimulating employment, on the eve of another New England-wide sale which begins Friday at 9 a. m.

Commenting on the efforts of Harry Kane, president, to lower prices, stimulate business, the U. S. Department of Commerce said:

"It is gratifying to learn of cases such as this in which individual initiative and courage are being exercised in dealing with business problems."

Officials of the Kane company also announced that many manufacturers had commended the drive for lower prices. They said that the move had enabled them to increase production, hire more employes as well as to bring business to steamship lines, trucking companies and warehouse workers.

In commenting on the drive, President Kane said:

"We are more than ever convinced by recent results that our drive to lower prices is the correct method of attacking present recessive conditions. It is based on the idea of sacrificing profits and offering unprecedented values to help people buy more goods and thus cause the manufacture of new goods with consequent re-employment of men and increased prosperity for all."

Harbor Wreck Rock Uncharted; Probe Begun

Claims that the rock that split the British freighter City of Salisbury last Friday was uncharted was being investigated today by Lieutenant Elliott Roberts, head of the Boston district of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Lieutenant Roberts, equipped with sounding and charting devices, visited the scene of the wreck today aboard a coast guard boat for the survey.

Bearings taken on the spot in the outer entrance to Boston harbor where the freighter met her doom show conclusively, it is claimed, that the rock is not noted on any chart used by seamen.

PLOTTED WRONG

It was expected the establishment of this fact will play an important part in hearings on the crash to be held soon. Captain William Lewis, pilot of the vessel, declared the chart showed 36 feet of water at the wreck scene and that the City of Salisbury draws only 26 feet and should have cleared the rock easily.

SALVAGERS WORK

Meanwhile salvaging work went ahead today, with workers risking their lives to remove the ship's valuable cargo from her holds. Momentarily the vessel, held together only by the keel, threatened to part and go to the bottom.

Magnate's Death Natural, U. S. Says

CLEVELAND, April 26 (AP)—A federal court jury decided today that O. P. Van Sweringen's death Nov. 23, 1936 was due to a heart attack induced by natural causes, and not by shock from a collision of his railroad car with another train at Scranton, Pa.

The decision relieved three insurances companies from double liability, which would have added $195,000 to the Cleveland rail magnate's estate.

Firemen on Duty At Chief's Hearing

While Fire Chief William W. Moxham of Lynnfield answers charges before the town selectmen tonight that he has failed to maintain discipline, regular members of the force will be prohibited from attending the hearing on orders of the chief.

False alarms aroused the town during a recent hearing on the same charges, brought because of the firemen's strike about a month ago.

Tobin Axe Falls On Ferry Service

Ferryboat service between Boston and East Boston on city-owned boats will be curtailed by order of Mayor Tobin as a part of his economy program. There will be no service between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., though rush-hour schedules will be maintained as at present. The mayor expects to save $30,000 a year by the curtailment.

Murray Ready To Enter Race For State Job

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

Within two weeks Professor John J. Murray, member of former Gov. James M. Curley's "brain trust" will announce his candidacy for lieutenant-governor, it was learned today.

The Milton professor, now special counsel for the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, was appointed chairman of the state tax appeals board during the waning days of the Curley administration and was let out by Governor Hurley when the legislature reorganized the board.

WARS ON UTILITIES

It is understood that his principal campaign issue will be reduction of utility rates, principally gas and electric, on which he is considered an expert. Professor Murray formerly taught at Boston University.

Another one of those crowded meetings of the Plymouth County Democratic League is scheduled tomorrow night at Elks' Hall in Middleboro.

State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley, president, has invited James H. Brennan, who announced yesterday his candidacy for lieutenant-governor; John H. Wallace, past state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Democratic candidate for state secretary; Mrs. Mildred Gleason Harris, Boston city councillor, and Thomas F. Galvin, public safety commissioner of Lawrence.

DAN HOLDS OVER

The reason a new boxing commissioner hasn't been named since Dan Kelley's term ran out in December is the long legislative harangue on the budget. Dan is booked for a job as head of a new physical education department under State Commissioner of Education James G. Reardon—if the item in the budget is approved.

Four strong candidates are in the field, including Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight boxing champ; Gene Driscoll, who has handled boxing for years for the N. E. A. A. U.; Dr. William F. Maguire of Randolph, now a trustee of Tewksbury state hospital, and Bill Brophy of the West End, bail commissioner, member of the Democratic state committee and chairman of the patronage committee of the Men's Democratic Club.

Butler Sees Trench War for 'Son Jim'

"No marine ever wore the uniform during war without serving in the trenches," the retired marine officer told the convention of the 123rd district of Rotary International."

Kennedy Attends Hofmann Jubilee

LONDON, April 26 (AP)—Josef Hofmann, the 62-year-old Polish pianist who has lived in the United States since he was 13, marked the golden jubilee of his childhood debut at a benefit concert in Queen's Hall here.

He appeared with the British Broadcasting Corporation's Symphony Orchestra and the British musicians benevolent fund. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy were patrons of the concert.

Baering Down on the News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Hank Ford's wheat dollar would be all right until it came to making change.

We'd be singing a song of six pence and a pocket full of rye, we would be counting our beans before leaving the window and we would be bribing officials with a handful of cracked corn.

Hank figures if wheat is a dollar a bushel then a dollar can be a bushel of wheat. It will be a good system as soon as we get used to the sparrows following us home.

But it won't be exactly right in a slot machine. When we smack a jack-pot we like to hear it clink.

SELECT ONE PLAYER (in scene) FROM THIS LIST:
Ann Rutherford; Lois January; Grace Bradley; Greta Garbo; Mary Boland; Anton Walbrook; Brian Donlevy; Gilbert Roland.

Here Are the Rules Read Them Carefully!

1. Each week-day a scene from a motion picture will be printed in the Boston Evening American until 55 have appeared. One actor will be chosen from the scene. Select the name of the motion picture, in which the scene appears, from the list printed near the picture. Choose the name of one movie player, represented in the scene, from the list of names printed on this page.
2. Only one set of answers can be submitted by any one person, but each member of a family may enter, and no family will be entitled to win more than one prize.
3. Hold all answers until you have the complete set of 55. DO NOT SEND IN INDIVIDUAL PICTURES.
4. This game is open to all bona fide New England residents, except employes of the New England Newspaper Publishing Company and other Hearst Enterprises, and members of their families or relatives.
5. Send your entry by first class mail or bring it to: Movie Scenes Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass. P. O. Box 866. All entries must bear sufficient postage to be considered.
6. All solutions must be accompanied by a letter of not more than 50 words on "What my favorite motion picture is and why." The judges will disqualify any contestants whose letters are written so identical in nature as to show collusion. You may select any motion picture for the subject of your letter. Letters will be considered only in the event of ties in solving these puzzles. Entries must be in the office of the editor, postmarked not later than midnight, DEC. days after the last picture is printed.
7. A committee of judges, appointed by the Boston Evening American, will select the winners in this contest. The contributor, by sending a set of solutions, indicates acceptance of these Rules and Conditions and agrees that there can be no appeal from the Judges' decisions. No entries can be returned. All entries become the property of the Boston Evening American.
8. Awards will be paid to the person sending in the nearest correctly solved complete set of pictures. Neither handwriting nor elaborateness will count. In the event of a tie between or among two or more contestants for any of the prizes, the prize or prizes next in order will be combined in a lump sum and then evenly distributed among those tying.
9. Use of specially prepared lists by outside concerns is strictly prohibited.

Funeral services for Henry B. Herrick, 60, founder of Herrick's business schools in Boston, Fall River and Worcester, will be held tomorrow from his home, 363 Highland street, Newtonville, with a requiem high mass in St. Bernard's Church, West Newton.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Paul J. Powers, Miss Dorothy M. Herrick and Miss Margaret A. Herrick, and a son, John M. Herrick, all of Newtonville.

JAMES F. J. CROWLEY

Rites for James F. J. Crowley of Charlestown, State street real estate and insurance businessman for more than 40 years, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. with a requiem high mass in St. Mary's church, Charlestown.

MRS. R. P. DOREMUS

GLOUCESTER, April 26—Rites were being arranged today for Mrs. Eleanor Doremus, 61, wife of the Rev. Robert P. Doremus, Unitarian minister, who died suddenly yesterday. She graduated from Radcliffe College in 1899.

FRANK E. LANGLEY

BARRE, Vt., April 26—Funeral services for Frank E. Langley, 74, founder-publisher of the Barre Daily Times and three times mayor of this city, will be held tomorrow at the Barre Congregational Church.

REV. THEODORE C. GLEASON

EAST GREENWICH, R. I., April 26 (AP)—Rev. Theodore Clarence Gleason, 90, pastor-emeritus of the First Baptist Church in East Greenwich, a preacher for more than half a century, died here last night.

Rev. Mr. Gleason was a native of Westboro, Mass., graduated from Harvard, '71 and from Newton Theological School in 1875.

J. H. SCHWARTING

Funeral services for John Henry Schwarting, vice-president of J. Walter Thompson Advertising Corporation, will be held tomorrow morning in Brooklyn, New York. Mr. Schwarting, an outstanding figure in the financial advertising field for 32 years, died suddenly last Sunday evening following a heart attack. He was 50 years old.

Hearst Sons To Fete Father

Both were accompanied by their wives and a friend of the young couples, Miss Edna James.

"We've come here especially to get together to celebrate father's birthday," said William Randolph Hearst, Jr., publisher of the New York Journal and American. That's been our custom for years."

Associated in an editorial capacity with the Atlanta Georgian, Randolph Apperson Hearst and his wife, who was Miss Catherine Wood Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Reech Campbell of Atlanta, were married last January.

Science Sees 'Production' Of Male Babies

By G. B. LAL
International News Service Science Editor
(Copyright 1938)

Prof. Bogert

Dr. Bogert, professor of organic chemistry at Columbia University, will sail next Saturday for Rome, where he may be called in by Mussolini for "expert advice" on Italy's drive to increase its population.

The new chemical method for producing relatively more boys than girls was explained thus by Professor Bogert:

"We know now, by experiments on chemicals that the sex of the offspring depends considerably upon the influence of the male or female sex hormones circulating within the body of the expectant mother.

TREND TOWARD BOYS

"Suppose that male hormone is given, by injection, to the woman so as to influence from the earliest embryonic stage the development of the fertilized ovum. This might be expected to turn the chemical balance in favor of the child being born a male.

"Chemically speaking members of both sexes have ingredients of the opposite sex. An increase of the male factor, during the critical embryonic state, can be expected to increase the birth rate of boys.

QUOTES M. I. T. MAN

"Only the beginnings of such physiological chemistry have been made. As Dr. Karl Compton, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said recently, there is a marked lag in the practical application of a discovery, owing to public ignorance and indifference.

"A nation which promotes chemical research and discovery and is quick to apply their results need not fear anybody."

Jakmauh Petition Goes to Hurley

Dr. Paul J. Jakmauh was endorsed today for the post of state commissioner of public health in a petition presented to Governor Hurley by 90 members of the Legislature.

Nomination of Dr. Jakmauh was turned down previously by the council on a vote of 6 to 3, but Governor Hurley announced he would resubmit the appointment.

Brighton Boy Bitten by Dog

Bitten severely on arms and legs William Armstrong, 4, of McBride street, Brighton, was in a serious condition at Forest Hills Hospital today after being attacked by a dog. Police were unable to find the dog.

Praise From Mayor

CITY OF BOSTON MASSACHUSETTS

Mr. John A. Molloy, Jr.,
Managing Editor,
Boston Evening American,
5 Winthrop Square,
Boston, Massachusetts

Dear Mr. Molloy,

May I take this opportunity to wish the Boston Evening American continued success as it makes its first appearance in a modern and attractive format.

The Boston Evening American has long been a force for good in the community and in New England. Its tireless efforts in the interests of the poor and underprivileged will, I know, be continued and even more forcefully presented in the new format.

With best wishes to you personally and to your associates on the Boston Evening American, I remain,

Sincerely,
Maurice J. Tobin
Mayor.

SEES GREATER SUCCESS—Fac simile of letter from Mayor Maurice J. Tobin congratulating Boston Evening American on its new attractive, convenient format. His Honor lauds paper for its powerful force for good in the community and predicts it will attain even greater success in the future.

Union Plan Splits Methodist Groups

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 26 (AP)—A strong controversy over union of Methodism began today as the Methodist Episcopal Church South opened its quadrennial general conference Thursday.

Preliminaries for the session, set to merge the Southern church with the Methodist Episcopal Church, were under way and unofficial leaders said plans for a union with the Northern group appeared assured.

Boston After Dark

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Memo to the Managing Editor:

The "talk" around town on the paper's new form and style is really a joy to hear . . . I hear the presses were pulmotored to keep up with the first day's demand . . . Now that the Big Change has been made without a hitch, do you think it would be possible to issue "The Round Man" in a new, modern format? . . . Our friend and co-laborer in the five-column vineyard, I mean . . James E. McEnaney of Newton, the good reporter . . . He is beginning to resemble a refugee from a kewpie factory . . . Business generally hereabouts is probably on the upbeat, because the book-makers are willing to take the long end of wagers that the racing (hose and hound) business will have its biggest year . . .

George Holland

Young Michael Todd, the producer of "The Man From Cairo" flew back for last night's performance at the Wilbur . . . Changes in the first act didn't satisfy him . . . He'll go back to the original . . . Todd talked with Lee Shubert in New York, and will open his show at the Broadhurst next Wednesday night . . . Did you know that one of the biggest feature syndicates has been reconnoitring Boston with the notion of backing a daily? . . . James Cannon, the New York Journal-American sports-flash, is in town with the Brooklyns . . . His story (printed today) will say that when Bill McKechnie, the miracle-man, went to Cincinnati, he left some of his miracles—Fette, Turner and MacFayden—in Boston . . . Cannon is a Casey Stengel fan, anyway . . . So he was of Burleigh Grimes, too, but the crack by Burleigh that baseball-writers could go their way and Burleigh would pound another beat, has Cannon and his fellow word-throwers sour on the manager . . .

Romance Through a Transom:

Jimmy is "high" on a beauty named Shannon Dean, a Texas colleen who comes by that pretty name according to rules of the Hoyle of nomenclature, our friend Representative Francis (Frank) Coyne . . . In short, she was christened that way . . . Cannon phoned Miss Dean between breakfast courses—which was when our Sunset Edition was hitting the street . . . I was outside the door of his hotel-room, the transom was open and an open transom isn't sound-proof . . . As two floor-maids will corroborate, the Cannon "pitch" is good . . . It sounded like the lyrics of one of those songs about good night, and angels, and when did Heaven let you go . . . Miss Dean is either gorgeous, or Mr. Cannon is myopic, astigmatic and afflicted with technicolor of the cornea . . .

Now that Dave Egan of Rockingham, Agawam and Bailey's Beach (or near there) is spliced, would it be too much like backing a firehorse for the second half of a daily double to predict that there will be a Mrs. Cannon some June or September? . . . It probably would

Once Over Lightly:

Cole Porter, whose tunes such as "Night and Day" and "You're the Top" seem never to die in Boston, was in clutches at the Versailles and had Sheila Barrett's inspired take-off of a typical pop song . . . She has been hired to make a series of two-reelers for Pathe-RKO . . . Governor Earle has invited Sam Berenson to visit with him at the Pennsylvania executive manse . . . It's a girl (Ah, parade) at the Dorchester home of the John Brennans. John was one of the Curley secretaries when James M. was located in school street and later when he moved upstreet to the Hill . . .

When is Mr. Curley going to announce his electoral intentions, do you suppose? . . . Since this paragraph was started, there have been four interruptions—all in praise of the paper. Lieutenant Governor Kelly thinks it is great. He commented on the home-going 5 o'clock crowds who have not been able to get a handleable-sized sheet like ours with the news of the day before. Gordon Holland—not a relative the engineer from Revere, was another. He is very enthusiastic. Dr. G. Lynde Gately (very enthusiastic also) and Jim Murley of Newton the radioman, the others . . . A sizable but secret boom is under way on behalf of former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols as a candidate for governor . . . Ditto for Mayor Lewis of Lowell for the lieutenant-governorship . . . It should be quite a night at the Mayfair tonight with Jackie Cooper, Bert Wheeler, Dixie Dunbar and Tommy Wonder among those present . . . I don't place Mr. Wonder, but they say he lives up to his name . . .

The Republican women aren't going to have an edge on the Democratic gals of the state in the matter of a clubhouse, I am told . . . Down from Marlboro recently came the lady they call "the mother of the Young Democrats," Mary Strand . . . Boston members of the Women's Democratic Club were a bit off-ish at first, I understand, because of "Mother" Strand's suburban registration . . . For the good of the party, all is serene and a Strand sponsorship of a plan to erect or buy a clubhouse as commodious as the Republican ladies' clubhouse in Beacon street has been approved . . .

Chatter:

Billy Rose is going to try straight vaudeville—no chorus girls—as his Casa Manana . . . And whether it's a parody of the Rose-ian activities, I wouldn't be knowing, but two young Broadwayites who prefer to remain anonymous are nearly ready to have songs fitted to their book entitled "Bigger Than Barnum" . . .

Both the Red Sox and Detroit are interested in the Toronto pitcher, Lan Franconi . . . Detroit will probably get him . . . Clyde Engle, however, has buzzed in Joe Cronin's ear the news about a catcher on the Maple Leafs who is very promising and may help the Sox catching situation—if it grows from bud to desperate . . . The receiver's name is Kilmzak . . . He was a third-baseman at Yale, but Engle switched him to backstop.

Gracie Runs College in Allen Style

Gracie Allen as the dean of men is something new in the way of education introduced in Paramount's "College Swing," the star-spangled musical coming to the Metropolitan screen on Thursday.

"Four Men and a Prayer," co-starring lovely Loretta Young and Richard Greene sensational British discovery, is the second feature. It is 20th Century Fox' adaptation of the popular Cosmopolitan magazine story.

"College Swing" glitters with names the most newsworthy right now being Jackie Coogan, the poor little ex-rich boy, and his bride, Betty Grable. Others are Bob Hope, Ben Blue, Edward Everett Horton, Florence George, John Payne, Martha Raye, the Slate Brothers and, of course, Gracie's long-suffering George Burns.

The plot has to do with what happens when Gracie inherits a university, and introduces some copy-righted Gracie Allen ideas into the curriculum. For instance, she discharges the faculty, installing her own friends and herself assumes the lofty position of dean of men.

In "Four Men and a Prayer," Miss Young is cast as a girl whose love for one of four brothers serves as a shining beacon through clouds of intrigue and even distrust of her. He is the new, bright star, Richard Greene.

The other brothers are George Sanders, David Niven and William Henry, who forsake everything all to avenge their father's disgraceful discharge from the army. Their father is that excellent actor, C Aubrey Smith.

Lombard Film On Twin Bills

Those expert and fascinating comedians Carole Lombard and Fernand Gravet are co-starred in "Fools for Scandal" the Mervyn LeRoy-directed comedy romance which comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens on Thursday.

Miss Lombard is an American movie star, traveling incognito, who tries to avoid the ardent advances of an impulsive French lover, Gravet.

"There's a Boy in Harlem" and "Can You Forget" are the songs featured.

"Prison Nurse," vividly dramatic story of heroic nurses who pursue duty in the face of danger, co-stars Henry Wilcoxon and Marion Marsh. He is the young doctor who is sentenced to life imprisonment for a "mercy killing" and she is the nurse who helps him clear his name and regain freedom.

Mae West Expounds Her Radio Views

Back on Broadway after five years in Hollywood, Mae West is playing to capacity houses at Loew's State theater, her box-office appeal apparently not in the least affected by her recent radio brush with the court of public opinion.

Mae says she knew it all the time that her belittlers were a harmless handful.

At the Sherry-Netherland in New York, where she entertained for visiting Boston drama and motion picture reviewers the other night, Miss West, waving a 200-carat star sapphire on the one hand and a 20-carat diamond on the other, had this to say about her memorable Sunday night broadcast:

"Forty million persons listened in on that broadcast. Four hundred complained. If I know my arithmetic, that is an infinitesimal percentage and hardly warranted the tumult and the shouting that followed the broadcast.

"Originally, it had been planned to have me do John Erskine's 'Adam and Eve.' A reading of it proved to me it couldn't be condensed. The script that was finally prepared was not what I would have ordered but, being in the writing business myself, I did as I would like to be done by and made no changes.

"But, from me to you, except for one previous occasion I have always resisted radio offers. I'm allergic to radio, especially on a Sunday night, and, anyway, I think people can get too much of you on the radio."

Miss West will appear on the RKO-Boston stage for a week of personal appearances, beginning Thursday.

RITZ TRIO EXPECTED

And "on-again-off-again" booking has been the tentative engagement of the Ritz Brothers for personal appearances at Keith's Memorial. They have agreed to play Boston three times in the past year, but picture engagements have interfered. They may play at last in May.

Molly Picon Due To the Majestic

In a new musical comedy, Molly Picon, star of the Yiddish theater and Aaron Lebedeff, known to generations of the Yiddish stage, will come to Boston Wednesday for a four-day engagement in "My Malkele," at the Majestic.

Abe Ellstein, who accompanied Miss Picon on a world-tour of trouping, has composed the score of My Malkele.

Male-Factor

'Lady at Large,' Comedy, for Plymouth

First of the stray May items on the calendar for Boston theatergoers is a new comedy, "Lady at Large," scheduled for the Plymouth May 2. Milton Shubert, who developed a hit in "The Housemaster" (Boston title) is producer of "Lady at Large." The author is one Philip Goodman, who has ten other plays in his trunk, according to amazing reports from New York.

"Lady at Large" is the first and presumably the best, of his output. Although until, or if, the others are produced, its a zany who would go thus on record. Except that Mr. Shubert (also presumably) had a peek at all the manuscripts and chose "Lady at Large." And Mr. Shubert certainly should know.

Benny Film Lead To Joan Bennett

LOS ANGELES, April 26—Jack Benny, who kiddingly told everyone that he was trying hard to make himself over into the kind of a pent Franciska Gaal could admire, will have to start all over again and learn to please Joan Bennett. Joan was borrowed today from Walter Wanger to co-star with Benny in "Artists and Models in Paris" and the picture, according to Producer Arthur Hornblow, will start in three weeks.

I was very happy to hear that Mitchell Leisen, who was so ill for many months in the desert, will direct. He is well again and back in his old stride. Joan, by the way sings and special music is being written for her by Rubins and Ranger.

Clark Gable knows now that it pays to be particular about his stories and so he has sent "Too Hot to Handle" back for a rewriting job. He and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer had many a battle over "Test Pilot," and Clark held it up for 18 weeks until he knew the story was right. The result is that "Test Pilot" is breaking records and has been held over in Hollywood for another week — a thing that rarely happens at the box office. He objected to Jean Harlow as leading lady, contending it would be the hero who knew something about planes and not a girl, whose only duties are the clothes.

Nobody Seems to know how long after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Gene Markey will be on the Metro lot. Myrna Loy is due to start "Wife vs. Secretary" with Clark Gable and Jean Harlow, and Jean will be on the set for the first week or two. Myrna will make only one picture after this, "Lucky Night," with Bob Montgomery, and then she will be through with pictures for a year. Myrna is tired by the rush of studio schedules and that the director's chair will be pretty much empty.

Charlie in Hollywood: There's been a lot of gossiping and whispering in Hollywood over why Virginia Bruce and J. Walter Ruben called off building that Bel Air mansion. Apparently there isn't a thing in the world to get excited about, for the house was never even started. Virginia and Jack it seems preferred a trip to Europe to building a new home just now so they'll leave in June for their official honeymoon trip. Jack today signed a new contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and his first assignment when he returns in the fall will be "Boystown" with Spencer Tracy, Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney.

He was injured Sunday on his way to Anita Loos' beach house when the automobile in front of him stopped suddenly . . . Nancy Kelly, the little girl who did so well in the stage play, "Susan and God," has been signed by 20th Century Fox.

Irene Dunne At Memorial Thursday

Irene Dunne, fantastically successful musical comedy star, finds the "Joy of Living" with the assistance of Douglas Fairbank, Jr., in RKO Radio's sophisticated romantic comedy of the same name, due at Keith Memorial on Thursday.

On the same program, the Nicholas Brothers, song-and-dance act recently featured in "Babes in Arms," and the Kraddocks, internationally famous comedy acrobats, are featured in "Starlight Parade," the stage show.

In "Joy of Living," Miss Dunne is being victimized by a selfish, indolent family, who make ducks and drakes of her huge income. Young Fairbanks is a brash young man who has disinherited his rich relatives and preaches a doctrine of attaining happiness by doing what you want to do.

Naturally, the initial exchange of ideas by these two charming people with widely divergent viewpoints precipitates conversational fireworks.

On Their Golden Wedding Day

Steps Out, But— Robert Irwin, "mad sculptor," slayer of beautiful Veronica Gedeon, model, shown on way to court for first round in battle against chair. He sought an immediate trial but his request was refused.

Let's Have Some Cake— Married just fifty years here are Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Lewis, of Harbor View, Nahant, celebrating their golden wedding anniversary with smiles, cake and congratulations of a big old-fashioned family. They are parents of fifteen children.

Bad for Bandits— State policemen at Wakefield target range trying out latest riot and tommy guns. John Tague, A. F. O'Brien, E. T. Londstrom, N. A. Peltier, W. L. Thomkins and C. R. Borkes.

Ready for Capital Sky-Raiders— Here's kind of welcome enemy fliers would receive on visit to Washington. Gun crew of Coast Artillery unit is shown serving latest type anti-aircraft gun just outside city limits. Camera clicked at moment gun spoke, blasting its death message into night sky.

Queen a Bride— Mary F. Wright, Lawrence beauty, who is shown after recent selection as festival queen in Florida, is now Mrs. Clyde A. Sterns of Syracuse, N. Y.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

'Fireside Chats'

The Editor Says: Nelson Harding's picture is apt and true. From millions of firesides throughout the United States come "chats" the Administration in Washington cannot ignore.

No longer are the people deluded into believing that Mr. Ickes' "sixty wealthy families" bear the brunt of the prodigal waste of the nation's resources.

Let the White House "tune in" on the "other side"—the side of the industrious people who pay for political incompetence in reduced standards of living, in curtailed opportunity for employment and in the shrinkage and loss of personal savings.

Their view combines COMMONSENSE and SOUND AMERICANISM. The country, torn by futile experimentation and ravaged by starry-eyed "dealism," needs both.

MARIHUANA PARTIES receive deserved condemnation from Dr. C. Gordon Brownville, pastor of Tremont Temple Baptist Church.

He warns parents that basements of small stores within easy reach of Boston schools are fitted up for young people who have been taught to smoke this dangerous narcotic.

Boston police should also heed the warning. To ignore the man who puts this insanity-producing drug into the hands of children is worse than to free a murderer. He is a MERCHANT OF WHOLESALE DEATH.

No man caught in the dope business should ever have a chance to go back to it. He ought to be rushed to prison with the same ruthless finality that he inflicts certain imbecility and ultimate death upon his victims.

PAGE SOLOMON! The problems the Biblical sage solved were as nothing compared to the one the Massachusetts Civil Service Commision must tackle.

Next Saturday that body gives a test for Examiner of Unemployment Compensation Claims. The job, paying $1500 a year, does not appear particularly attractive.

So it seemed. But no! Here it is only Tuesday and already TWENTY-TWO THOUSAND have written: "We want that work; we are taking the test."

Boston merchants ought to think now about buying at least one very large hat. The person whom the commission chooses as winner will need it. Certainly anybody who can be "the best of twenty-two thousand" is entitled to a little head expansion.

COOLNESS PAYS, and Miss Helen Keenan, quick-thinking young woman of Roxbury, proves it.

When a South End man slipped from the "El" platform at Columbia station and fell into the pit, Miss Keenan did not lose her head, cover her eyes or give away to hysterics.

Instead she ran to the opposite end of the platform, tore a part of her skirt and waved it at the approaching train. Seeing her, the operator applied his brakes, stopped. Thus the man on the tracks escaped a horrible death.

Appropriate honors should be given Miss Keenan. She is literally "one in a million."

The Political Parade

By George Rothwell Brown

WASHINGTON, APRIL 26

WHEN the Congress of the United States can adjourn over a long week-end, at a moment of national crisis, to enable our great statesmen to go on a posey-sniffing junket in South Carolina, the economic plebeians, with their noses on a grindstone instead of a peony, are afforded a pretty good insight into the mental state of our great statesmen.

That state is one in which a visit to the flower gardens of Charlestown is regarded as of more consequence than the economic recovery of the nation from panic.

Considering Congress as a whole, there is nowhere any coherent idea of how the emergency may be met.

The individual Senator, and the individual member of the House, is in a condition of bafflement.

He appreciates the gravity of the situation. But for some strange psychological reason, the intelligence of the individual member of both branches is higher than the collective intelligence of the Congress as a whole.

This explains why Senators and members of the House talk one way and vote another.

It explains why public servants who know better are preparing to vote for the most indefensible spending spree of the whole New Deal debauch on taxpayers' money.

Congress is about to present the President on the Supreme Court issue, on the reorganization of the government and on other issues of vast and basic importance.

But it has no constructive program of its own.

The nearest approach to this has been the report of the Byrnes committee on relief and unemployment.

The President has perhaps the keenest sense of humor of any man in public life today. There is a certain shyness about it, and often has to be teased out before he means them to stay.

He must have relished the naive recommendation of Dr. Townsend for a coalition government in Washington.

According to the author of the $200-a-month plan—who has no sense of humor whatever, or he never would have invented his scheme—the President thought the coalition idea was "impracticable!"

In view of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is governing the country today with a coalition cabinet, containing such extremists as Wallace and Ickes, on one hand, and Jim Farley on the other, and in view of the further fact that his hold on Congress depends upon groups made up of old-fashioned Democrats, New Deal Democrats, parlor Socialists, Farmer-Labor and other radicals, the doctor's quaint remark must have made the President's funny-bone twitch.

Son Jimmy Roosevelt's Middletown speech, in which he laid down the imperishable doctrine that the way to balance a nation's budget is to get that nation deeper into debt, was regarded as the most inept thing that has come out of the White House circle in quite some time.

It was so perfectly sophomoric. But it was also so perfectly illustrative of the precise policy which the President is now advancing in Congress.

Jimmy merely made that policy look absurd, whereas the President had more cleverly concealed the basic fallacy in a lot of high-sounding words.

Isn't It So?

Peace has its victories no less renowned than war.

Vengeance has not foresight. It has too much hindsight.

The most shameless character on earth is the man who finds pleasure in another man's ruin, even though it be deserved.

What of Today, Tomorrow?

'We Are Here to Work,' Henry Ford Declares

The Boston Evening American today presents the third in a series of exclusive articles disclosing Henry Ford's message to the people of America.

In his second article, published in Monday's Boston Evening American, the motor magnate said abundant opportunity exists in America for persons determined to work.

By JOHN BRADFORD MAIN

(World Copyright, 1938, by The Boston Evening American. All Rights Reserved)

"What are we here for?"

"What is the purpose of our being here on earth?"

That was Henry Ford's question, asked of this reporter as we sat together before the log fire in the fireplace in old historic Wayside Inn in Sudbury.

Mr. Ford's eyes were fastened on the flames. Outside, the rain beat down, a steady patter on the window pane.

HENRY FORD

There is a wistful quality about Henry Ford. Don't laugh. Don't think this is a reporter's "color" for his story. It is really there. His is the greatest industrial empire, probably, the world has ever known. But he himself is as simple, as unaffected, as politely gentle, as a child.

Henry Ford, master of millions, titan of industry, richest man in America, everybody knows.

But here is a man nobody knows — Henry Ford, mystic, dreamer, philosopher, deeply religious, not with the "organized" religion of any church or creed, but with a profound and prayerful belief in the purpose-ness of things, the rightness of destiny and God.

His are beliefs so closely akin to those expressed by Ralph Waldo Emerson, greatest New England philosopher, as to be positively startling.

Mr. Ford, this reporter ascertained, never has read Emerson to any great extent. Yet, if you would obtain as good a cross-section as any of what Mr. Ford believes, read Emerson's essays collected under the title, "The Conduct of Life."

Like Emerson, Henry Ford believes that in the broad stream of things called life there is a definite forward current or purpose—and that it is good.

Henry Ford has, too, one very personal belief of this own:

"I believe," he told this reporter, "that we are here now and will come back again."

"You—you mean you believe in Reincarnation?" this reporter asked.

"I do," said Mr. Ford.

Right here, let it be made perfectly clear that this belief of Mr. Ford's is no weird or outlandish belief that he is "the reincarnation of" anybody from the past.

"I believe," he told this reporter simply, "that we are put here on this earth for a purpose—and that that purpose is to acquire experience.

"I believe that this experience is acquired by development over a period of cycles.

"I believe that we go on from here—to where, I don't know: perhaps in this world, perhaps in some other, perhaps in some form utterly different.

"Of this I AM sure, however—that we ARE here for a purpose. And that we go on. Mind and memory—they are the eternals.

"With St. Paul, I believe 'in the substance of things hoped for, and the evidence of things unseen'!"

Mr. Ford paused a moment, his eyes alight, his face shining. There was quiet in this room, this old room crowded with historic memories, its Paul Revere prints on the wall, its ancient musket over the fireplace, bearing the initials of a Colonial soldier, its old-time footwarmer in the corner and, on top of it, a tiny pair of shoes, worn by some little girl long, long ago.

"Everyone born for a purpose," said Mr. Ford. "Yes, that is it. To realize that is one of the most comfortable experiences anyone can have. That's my belief. It's a good belief for anyone. It doesn't let anyone down.

"I am not a follower of any formal creed. All creeds, all sects, all religions, I think, are good. All strive for goodness. That is all, I think, that anyone can ask of us.

"When I was a young man, I, like so many others, was bewildered. I found myself asking the question I asked you—'What are we here for?' I found no answer. Without some answer to that question, life is empty, useless.

"Then, one day, a friend handed me a book—a little book—it is out of print now.

"That little book gave me the answer I was seeking. It changed my whole life.

"The name of it? It was 'A Short View of Great Questions,' by Orlando J. Smith.

"It was given to me in—let me see if I can remember—yes, of course I can!—it was handed to me the very day President McKinley was buried. I remember, I read three-fourths of it while he was being buried.

"We are put here on earth to acquire experience.

"Work is the only fruitful experience. Work—accomplishment—is the only satisfying experience.

"Oh, I believe with the fine old upstanding Yankee tradition. Work!—there is virtue in it! The men and women who built this country were not afraid of it. But I believe, too, that there is beauty in it. And satisfaction. And happiness—the only real happiness there is."

"A great man once said, 'To labor, is to pray,'" this reporter ventured.

"Yes," said Henry Ford, calmly. "And who was it said, 'By their works ye shall know them.' An even Greater Man, I think."

What does Henry Ford REALLY think of ORGANIZED LABOR? What Mr. Ford told THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN'S reporter will startle the nation. Don't miss it—the fourth of this amazing series of articles—in TOMORROW'S BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN.

Girl About Town

by Marjorie McBride

IF YOU own a radio you will be interested to know the radio experts have radio listeners divided into five separate groups. They have employed psychologists and house-to-house canvassers to get the data and are reasonably certain they have the customers properly classified.

Marjorie McBride

Linus Travers, director of production for both Yankee and Colonial networks here, says the most pernicious type is the fellow who doesn't listen at all . . . he turns on the radio and just wants noise . . . he'd be just as well satisfied with a pneumatic drill back of his chair.

Then there is the fellow or girl who is simply bored. Vaguely such people hope the program will electrify them, but it won't.

In the third group are the men and women who have finished a day's work and want to be instructed or entertained. Pathetically eager to be amused, they listen to practically everything and so become discriminating by trial-and-error method.

Fourth state of mind is that of the person who is "selective." He wants Charlie McCarthy, or Fred Allen, or a symphony, or Lum and Abner. He tunes out when they are not on.

No. 5 radio fan makes up his mind in advance such and such a program must not be missed. A listener-in like that is likely to have his own ideas as to how any given program should be performed whether it be one by Shakespeare or by Fanny Brice.

TRAVERS FINDS that right now there is a great interest among listeners in the lives of other people . . . real people like themselves. Call them "interviewees" . . . persons you didn't expect to meet . . . distinguished strangers. They tell stories that have human interest, no matter how well they tell them. And the people by the radios eat it up.

Pretty much sure-fire stuff is anything the people want to hear about, according to Travers. Things such as news broadcasts, play-by-play stories of big sports events, the weather service. When it comes to music you are safe in presenting the best. More so than you used to be.

The column thought you'd like to know that YOU are being studied. Naturally, they can't crawl through the radio box at you and pop their questions, BUT THEY ARE ON YOUR TRAIL!

THERE'S a fascination in childhood stories about persons who get around and become known. There is the one Paula Patterson of the Boston Post tells about her son, who is George Holland of "Boston After Dark" and the American.

He was eight and going to a tea party at the home of a very snooty neighbor. He was prepped and prompted and given nearly all the answers. Anyway, he wanted to go. He liked tea, and still does. A butler began inquiring the tastes of the little guests. Each was asked if he or she wanted cream or lemon. When George's turn came he said, uncompromisingly:

"I'll have tea. THAT'S what I came for."

SPRING NOVELTIES: An exciting new hat, called the "Stowaway," is being featured at Jordan Marsh. It's as individual and versatile as your own ideas and comes in multicolors . . . Slattery's presents a hand-stitched "shortie" glove designed by a London firm and copied in washable, double-woven fabric in smart shades . . . At Filene's you'll find a brand-new "peon" belt of fibre blocks thonged with leather . . . it's straight from California and very colorful. These items are priced under $2.

The Next War -:-

by Hugh S. Johnson

WASHINGTON, D. C.—"If War Comes," by a regular and a reserve major, Dupuy and Eliot, published by The Macmillan Company, is a valuable book.

It is a simple, careful study of the new weapons of war—aircraft, tanks, gas, smoke, flame, chemicals, armored cars and new explosives.

It tells about their probable effect on how armies and navies will fight in the future and what modern major war will do to civilians.

Gen. Johnson

It discusses the areas of possible wars all over the world and makes estimates of the relative armed strength of possible enemies.

In all this stuff about whole cities being wiped out "between the dawn and dusk of a single day," nations paralyzed by swift mass air-raids on their economic nerve centers, armies put to sleep by drenchings of gas; a dose of this readable stuff, which any high school student can take and digest, is an antidote.

The book minimizes nothing of the truth of the horrible effect of new weapons, but it certainly punctures the bunk—and it is highly important to puncture it.

For example, on the goblin gas attack on New York City, it shows it would take 80 tons of phosgene to cover a five-mile area and that it would be fatal only if breathed with no protection at all continuously for an hour. It would be scattered by the slightest breeze and could be protected against by going into a room and shutting the doors and windows—or going 30 feet upstairs.

Mustard gas would stick longer, but it sinks—"above the first floors, the effect would be practically nil and any wind at all would help to dissipate the gas."

"The really horrible thing about such a concentration would be the panic produced in a community unwarned and untrained—ignorant of the powers and limitations of gas." Substitute "war" for "gas" in that last sentence and you have a reason why something like this book ought to be a text in every class in high school civics. Ignorance about war starts war, prolongs war and makes war disastrous.

The book sketchily exposes the worst force for provoking war—lying propaganda. That is a part of war that should certainly be understood. It places this country in its setting among possible enemies and at least indirectly indicates how much defensive preparation is necessary to keep us out of war and—even more important—how much is not.

The increased offensive power—and the distinct limitations—of tanks, armored cars, and modern mechanized and motorized armies are simply discussed with a conclusion with which I think most experts agree.

It is that they leave the essential principles of war exactly as they have always been, but that they make it swifter, require much smaller armies than marched in 1918—and make war far more expensive.

It emphasizes what has been frequently said here—that the military and naval policies of this Administration are making this nation very safe from attack on these shores. They ought to be continued and upheld.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Only their intimate friends know it, but President Roosevelt and Governor Lehman have completely cleared away their estrangement over the Supreme Court fight and are bosom admirers again.

What changed the picture was Roosevelt's championship of the right of asylum following the persecution of Jews in Austria, also his international proposal to aid Jewish refugees.

Governor Lehman

Governor Lehman, who has spent many years and much of his personal fortune aiding refugees, immediately changed his attitude toward Roosevelt, and the two men have been exchanging the warmest and most fulsome letters.

This has an extremely important effect upon the New York gubernatorial situation, for at one time Lehman was ready to run for re-election in order to head off a Roosevelt candidate (Bob Jackson). Now, however, he has made it clear to his friends that he does not want to run, though the U. S. Senatorship—when there is a vacancy—is another thing.

With Wagner not at all anxious to be Governor of New York, Solicitor General Jackson again looms as a definite possibility.

DIPLOMACY—Wise-crack going the rounds of diplomatic circles following Roosevelt's blessing of the Chamberlain-Mussolini agreement: "If Secretary Hull goes away on another vacation, the career boys will persuade the President to OK Japan's conquest of China."

FAREWELL PARTY—Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts gave a dinner party the other day for Senator Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana, which Van Nuys, who faces an unpromising up hill re-election battle this fall, saw as an opportunity to make political capital back home.

So he suggested to a friendly newsman that he interview Walsh about the dinner and telegraph a story back to Indiana.

The reporter looked up Walsh, got the names of the guests, then inquired disarmingly, "Senator, just what is the purpose of your party?"

"Oh, no special purpose," chatted Walsh.

"You see, Fred is leaving the Senate and I thought it would be nice to have a get-together for him and his friends."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY'RE going American in a big way in Dubuque, Ia., schools. Not just telling the youngsters adventure tales or teaching them to babble patriotic phrases. But making them decide for themselves what Americanism means, what it demands, what it costs—RIGHT NOW, TODAY—in terms of human sacrifice and service, sweat, tears, blood, prayers and hard cash. And whether they, as future citizens, have what it takes to be an American.

Here, for example, comes young Marjorie Herrmann—9 B Civics Committee member, Jefferson Intermediate School, Dubuque, Iowa—with details. Says Marjorie:

Elsie Robinson

"In our ninth grade civics class we are studying 'School Citizenship.' In this unit we are trying to learn about good and bad habits of pupils in our school . . . of the problems facing our school and, judging by these, how a modern city solves its problems. Our class has decided to determine the things that are causing troubles in citizenship. We would like to know your opinion of some good habits pupils should form in school."

A modern youngster's school quiz—questions a child of 12 is supposed to answer. But why limit them to 9 B Civics?

HOW ABOUT APPLYING THEM TO YOURSELF?

What does Americanism mean to YOU?

What do YOU mean to America? What do YOU give to America?

YOU'RE told to be "patriotic." But what is your idea of patriotism? Fighting in front-line trenches in France? Traveling in Covered Wagon Trails? Joining clubs. Ranting from soap boxes or radios? Lobbying bills through Congress? No—these are not proofs of patriotism . . . These are not the measure of your worth to your country.

PRIVATE PERFORMANCE . . . THAT'S THE PROOF.

You are as great an American as you are an individual—no more nor less. You are as valuable, as wise and strong and loyal, as a citizen, as you are wise, strong and loyal as a private individual. You may know all the Fourth of July phrases and be first in the flag waving . . . BUT UNLESS YOU ARE A BRAVE, INTELLIGENT AND CONTROLLED PERSON YOU AREN'T WORTH A HOOT TO THESE UNITED STATES.

And that's why these schools in Dubuque, Iowa, are doing a big and valuable job. They are beginning at the right end . . . not with the registered voter but with the private individual.

They are teaching the children that AMERICANISM BEGINS AT HOME . . . IN THE PERSONALITY AND DAILY PERFORMANCE OF EACH BUDDING CITIZEN.

You wonder, whether you're thirteen or thirty, what part you'll play in public life. The answer's easy. You'll play as big a part as you play in private life. YOU'LL BE AS USEFUL TO AMERICA AS YOU ARE TO YOURSELF.

How do you take your problems as they come day by day? Do you take them realistically, face them bravely, with all their disturbing, disrupting challenges? Do you make adjustments as they are needed, pushing on and on?

Or do you try to escape from reality . . . ducking away into day dreams, sentimentality, intolerance, self pity and prejudice? Are you long on alibis but short on action? If so, your "patriotism" won't be worth the Hot Air it consumes.

These are questions which affect all America today . . . questions which will determine the progressive life or speedy death of America.

You may be only the ninth grade youngster in some grammar school, or you may be the head of a vast business, the governor of one of our biggest states.

Whatever you are, your reaction to these questions will make or break your country.

IF YOU'RE A STRAIGHT-THINKING, HARD-HITTING, SQUARE-SHOOTING INDIVIDUAL, YOU'LL SAVE AMERICA!

BUT IF YOU'RE A DODGER AND A DAY DREAMER . . . A POSER AND A SENTIMENTALIST—YOU'RE AS MUCH A TRAITOR TO YOURSELF AND YOUR COUNTRY AS ANY AARON BURR!

Helen Rowland Says:

Occasionally you meet a man who is so hopelessly conceited that you suspect that he carries his own photograph pasted in the back of his watch.

To a bachelor, the most delightful parties are those that he never can remember next morning—and the most delightful kisses are those that he never can forget.

Sometimes a modern girl is prepared to go through everything for the man she has promised to love and honor; and sometimes she is merely preparing to go through everything he's got.

Nowadays, the average woman's Big Job in matrimony is to "jack up" a man's ambitions, brace up his self-confidence and keep his courage from sagging.

To fall head-over-heels in love with a man may increase a woman's capacity for happiness, but it always minimizes her chances of getting either happiness or the man.

A girl forms her opinions of her own attractions by what she sees in the looking-glass; but a man doesn't bother to look in a mirror—he can size up his charms pretty accurately by what he sees in women's eyes.

Almost any woman can win an argument with a man if she tries; but by the time she has convinced him that he's wrong she has usually convinced him that she's the wrong girl.

Some day a great genius will come along and discover a way to reduce the number of places in which a man can mislay his hat, lose the tickets and hide things from himself.

No man need worry for fear he may fall in love with any woman when he's already HALF-in-love with several.

Optimism is a GRAND thing when it is mixed with a little common sense. And trying to beat the game is the most exciting sport in the world. It makes you "wake up and live." Life may not begin at 40, but it certainly doesn't END there. And, by that time, you know HOW to live!

Of course, there is no longer any such thing as "easy money" or a "safe racket," and the belief that you can get something for nothing is a foolish sort of optimism—the optimism of the gangster, who seldom lives long enough to enjoy the things he gets that way—and of the financier who gets poor or gets in jail trying to get rich—quick.

Recital Ushers Guests at Tea

By BETTY ALDEN

"AH was scared to death when they asked me t'be chaiahman of the committee," said Mrs. Louis B. Hawes at the small tea in her Cambridge home yesterday afternoon . . .

"Down in Memphis," she continued in her pleasing southern drawl, "before ah was married and moved up to Boston, ah worked on committees for a lot of little old Junior League parties, but nevah anything as big as this concert's turned out to be. Everything has turned out wonderfully, however, and I'm enjoyin' all the work" . . .

Her hard work and southern charm have evidently brought results . . . because a long list of Cambridge music lovers have already agreed to be patronesses for the piano recital Dai Buell will give at the Continental Hotel, May 6, to benefit the Cambridge Y. W. C. A. . . .

The hostess, "Peggy" to her friends, set off her blonde coloring with a turquoise frock, made in a novel style with a black over-skirt . . . Peggy and Betty Firuski of Cambridge, and their sisters deb of last winter, Mary Faxon, dropped in after a busy day at the various volunteer jobs which are part of nearly every deb's daily schedule this spring . . . The party was in honor of the debs and post debs chosen to usher and sell posees . . .

Mrs. Bradford Price (Jane Kelley) was on hand to offer a few suggestions for the smooth running of the concert from the point of view of a junior patroness . . . The younger marrieds of Cambridge, it seems, have subscribed whole heartedly to the affair, and are being represented on the committee by several junior patronesses . . .

In spite of being incapacitated for over a month with a broken ankle, Mrs. Huntington P. Faxon has carried on her job of seeing that subscribers get just the table they want . . . for even at a less formal cabaret style affair, table location makes a great difference in the enjoyment of many music lovers . . .

Style Show to Benefit Hospital

The lady who counts the correct number of spots before her eyes at the fashion show at the Ritz day after tomorrow, will have the enjoyable experience of winning a brand new dress . . .

This spot-guessing contest will be a novel feature of the fashion show for the benefit of the Boston Dispensary and Floating Hospital . . . Mrs. Robert W. Emmons, Jr., will model an attractive polka dotted gown and the guests will have a merry time trying to guess the number of spots on it . . .

As contest chairman and official spot counter, Nathaniel Clark of Dover will award the dress to the person whose estimate is closest to the exact number . . .

A demonstration of tangoes, rhumbas and a couple of "swing" songs by Julia Barbour, popular singer of Vincent Club shows, will lend a little more variety to the program . . .

That practically everyone of social prominence is eager to do her bit for the Floating Hospital is evidenced by the hundreds of reservations . . . and a number of hostesses are planning luncheon parties such as that of Mrs. Charles E. Kinkade who will entertain Mrs. Hollis Hunnewell, Mrs. Alfred Peabody and Mrs. Whiting Willauer before taking them on to the Ritz for the fashions and tea . . .

Mrs. Leslie Soule of Dedham will have a small luncheon for daughter Anne, Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw and Mrs. Sullivan Sargent . . . and Mrs. Francis Moulton will be in a party with Mrs. George Bigelow, Margetta Bigelow, Mrs. George F. Bemis and Mrs. Randolph K. Byers . . .

Notes From a Society Editor's Cuff

Ginny Ward is always doing something different in the way of parties . . . like making her debut at a house party in the mountains, when skiing and winter sports were at their height . . . so her friends were not surprised when she gave the North Shore coming summer season a little impetus the other day, by giving a beach picnic in Beverly . . . the party celebrated the 20th birthday of this popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ward . . .

Nadia Boulanger, who seems to have an inexhaustible fund of material for interesting lectures, will entertain still another audience when she talks about poetry and music at the last Alliance Francaise meeting of the season, May 4, at the Copley Plaza . . . Mrs. Russell Codman and Dr. and Mrs. Strong are among the many socialites who keep up their interest in French literature and current events by atending the Alliance meetings . . .

Victoria Potter Plans May Bridal

A May wedding is being planned by Victoria Potter, whose parents, Mr and Mrs. Austin Potter of Wellesley, have just announced her engagement to William H. Harris, Jr., of New York.

Radcliffe Grad to Wed Saturday

In spite of the rush of showers, fittings and entertainment, Rosamunde Barbara Whittredge has found time to complete plans for her wedding to Roger Paul Hammond, Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony will be performed in the Evangelical Congregational Church, Needham, by the Rev. Robert Cheney of St. Mark's Church, Southboro, and Dr. Edward M. Condit of the Evangelical Church.

Miss Whittredge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Gilbert Whittredge of Needham, has chosen as her maid of honor Francis Nesbitt of Belmont, a classmate at Radcliffe. The bridesmaids will be Susan Richards of Needham, Phyllis Wildes of Hartford, Conn., Marian Dowst of Salem, and Geraldine Persons of Worcester.

John M. Gray of Worcester will be Mr. Hammond's best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception will be held at the Wellesley Country Club.

The bride-to-be graduated from the Brimmer School and attended Radcliffe. Mr. Hammond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Alexander Hammond of South Sudbury, graduated from Phillips Andover and Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

CAMBRIDGE BENEFITS

Not one card party, but several were given to benefit the Cambridge Circle of the Florence Crittenton League, this afternoon. Mrs. Darwin Gardner, Mrs. John Berry, Mrs. Rufus F. Maddux, Mrs. John Alles, Mrs. Theodore G. Ames and Mrs. Charles Winkler, Jr., were among the Cambridge hostesses.

You Can Be Beautiful; 'Red Kiss' Dead Black

By ARLINE GOULD

WHEN THINGS look black, you may be sure they're going to be at their brightest pretty soon!

At least that's what the French must have figured when they contrived the most amazing lipstick of the age. It's dead black. Black as licorice, or ebony, or night with the shades pulled down. On the lips it turns into a pulsating red! Called 'The Red Kiss.'

It hit New York this month, and though far from being a budget gadget, it was snapped up by the hundred. Not only because it made the lips glow with lusciousness, but chiefly because it is incredibly indelible.

One of the little uncertainties of life has always been the lipstick. It put tangible flaws in kissing.

Even the psychologists, who always manage to think of things last, have decided that lipstick injects a definite obstruction in the minds of men.

It's long been a grin-and-bear-it subject over here, but in France, where the men have more to say in such matters, the smeary lipstick has been put on the spot.

And so—voila! the "Red Kiss," compounded to cover the lips indelibly and beautifully, and leave no crimson imprint on others.

Encased in a black and silver cylinder, chunky and chic, and the smallest amount of lipstick for your money you've ever seen. Of course it will last longer than the average stick because there is no comeback red-coursing to be done.

Though the red of the black stick is particularly lush and enticing if you want a shade that has more wine tone, or one that's like fresh-plucked nasturtium petals (to go with your new tan) there are more conventionally colored sticks. Light and medium nasturtium, claret, orange and dark wine red are to be had.

But you will want the black "Red Kiss." It's the conversation piece of the season!

If you'd like to know where the lipstick called "The Red Kiss" which is made in France and is incredibly indelible, may be found in Boston, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until 5, or write her at the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tips to Bride On Cooking

By MARTHA LEE

Armed with a little knowledge about foods, the young bride can avoid many a disastrous pitfall in her kitchen venture.

Since meat is so important in making meals enjoyable, a few words to simplify its selection and preparation are in order.

The methods of cooking meat are six in number: Roasting, broiling, panbroiling, braising, stewing and simmering in water. If the young bride has a thorough knowledge of these cooking methods and knows the cuts which are best cooked by each method, meat cookery will be easy.

In general, the selection of a method of cooking a particular cut depends largely upon the tenderness of the cut. Tender cuts of meat are cooked by dry heat as in roasting, broiling or panbroiling, while the less tender ones need long cooking in order to make them tender. This means that the latter should be cooked by braising, stewing or cooking in water. For roasting, thick, chunky cuts of meat are chosen. For broiling or panbroiling, the steaks and chops are best. Large or small less-tender pieces of meat may be braised, with the larger pieces requiring longer cooking time than the smaller ones. For stews, the meat is cut into small pieces. Large less-tender meat cuts are simmered in water.

SPICED ROLLED SHOULDER OF LAMB

Rolled lamb shoulder
Salt and pepper
6 whole cloves
12 whole allspice
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 cup cider vinegar

Have lamb shoulder boned and rolled at the market. Make a sauce of spice, sugar, and vinegar. Pour over lamb and let stand for half an hour before cooking. Season with salt and pepper and place, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Cook in a moderately slow oven, basting occasionally with the spicy sauce. Allow forty to forty-five minutes per pound for cooking lamb; thicken the liquid and serve as sauce.

Navy Town Trotter

By ANNICE BRINK

WHAT DO we suggest when asphalt boils and the cement in town throws a white glare up into your eyes? We could be smart and tell you to head for the nearest beach. Or a bar. But the really helpful suggestion is "spun rayon." This is a new fabric of the rayon family—woven to exactly imitate chiffon linen, peasant linen, fine cotton and silk or wool weaves. It washes like a charm, is absolutely crush resistant. And we've found a marvelous group of spectator sports types which in dark colors go to town, in pastels or prints meander into the resorts—and some of the choicest are just under four dollars! Like this one of peasant-linen weave in a rich navy, with little pleats and buttons all down the front, and a red belt. Resent Shabby Treatment

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I feel there are many girls in New England who are treated as writer of the letter printed here and I believe my advice will be beneficial to them all.

Here is Peg's letter:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm 16 years old, and think a great deal of a boy of 18. He comes to see me and is always very nice and pays me a lot of attention.

But when I am out with the girls, he never seems to notice me, but dances with others.

He will act this way one evening, and then call me up the following day and tell me how much he loves me.

Today I told him about it, and now he says he's through with me because I'm so hard to please.

What shall I do? PEG.

MY DEAR CHILD:

Why not call on your reserve stock of pride and try to get over your interest in a boy who treats you so shabbily?

Why did he never ask you to dance?

Are you a poor dancer?

If you are, better lose no time in learning to dance well. Also, cultivate a little independence of character.

Next time, YOU set the tune.

Span of Life Is Longer Now

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A recent report of the United States public health service indicates that the expectancy of long life is greater now than ever before.

An infant born today has the prospect of living 12 years longer than was expected of its parents at their birth. The expectancy of life in 1900 was 49 years, while the expectation of today's baby is 61 years.

If we carefully examine the statistics, we discover many interesting facts. The diseases of the young are better controlled than they were in former years. Boys born in cities are likely to live longer than girls. The children of cities are healthier than those of the country. This must mean that the health conditions, sanitation and hygiene are better in cities than in rural sections.

The future span of life depends entirely upon the control of such diseases as cancer, diabetes, heart disease, kidney disorders, "strokes" and other tragedies of middle life. Many of these disorders are neglected and only brought to the attention of the doctor after a calastrophe has occurred.

Health authorities believe that by careful periodic health examinations it will be possible to decrease these serious disorders. If they are properly attended to, there is no doubt that the average span of life will be markedly lengthened.

HOW TO SOUR MILK

SWEET milk soured with lemon may be used exactly like natural sour milk or buttermilk in any baking soda recipe. For a liquid equal to natural sour milk, place 1½ tablespoons lemon juice in a standard measuring cup. Fill to 1 cup mark with fresh sweet milk, or with diluted evaporated milk.

YEAST FORMS

THE two forms of yeast commonly used in making bread are dry and compressed yeast. Compressed yeast begins to grow immediately when moistened and mixed with sugar, while dry yeast takes longer to react, since it must be thoroughly softened first. A new granular dry yeast now on the market acts as rapidly as does compressed yeast.

'My Love Is New' -:- -:- By Iris Bennett

What Has Happened:

CONSTANCE DARBY is just 20 and terribly in love with TERRY CANNON. He and Connie plan to marry in October. For the summer, Terry acts as swimming instructor at a boys' camp and Constance is secretary to GORDON KEITH, well-known newspaper correspondent and ladies' man.

ROSALIND, Constance's 18-year-old sister, envies the life of luxury enjoyed by the folk who live in that exclusive part of the town called "The Hills." She has been seeing the wealthy playboy, VAN HOWARD.

While working for Gordon, Constance meets AVIS BAILEY, attractive young debutante. The latter is obviously interested in the handsome Gordon.

Time passes, and one day, as Gordon helps Constance with her coat, his hands rest on her shoulders. A rush of emotion sweeps over her. Why had his touch stirred her? Brooding over Van, Rosalind attempts suicide. It develops she and Van are married.

Thanks to Gordon, Van's mother is reconciled and Rosalind goes to live "on the hill." A few weeks later Constance meets her and is coldly snubbed. It is a cruel blow.

Now Continue:

CHAPTER 14

Gordon looked for Avis and found her on the veranda in the half-darkness, her white satin dress shimmering, several diamond bracelets glittering on her brown arm. Leaning against the porch railing he lighted a cigarette and said, "I can scarcely see you but I think the hair is red and so it must be you, Avis." And he knew her green eyes were looking angrily at him.

"So kind of you to take the trouble to find me. So you brought Constance tonight. Showing her a little glamour, is that it?"

Her voice was husky and hard.

"Have you told her what she's been missing all these years? You're such a wonderful line, Gordon. You haven't forgotten anything, I hope."

Then, after a pause, "You know I expected to come with you tonight. You know that everyone is saying I've been thrown over for your secretary. That's a laugh! Being thrown over for a girl from Vine street. But those girls seem to have something. Look at Rosalind married to the richest boy in town . . ."

Leaning forward, he took her hand, drew her to her feet, and then close to him.

"Let me see your face in the light, Avis. You're not jealous of Constance, I hope. Only two days ago when I asked you frankly if you loved me, you said emphatically that you didn't."

"I don't! I hate you, Gordon! I hate your smoothness, your conceit! I can see through you but Constance can't."

Moving away, she cried, "And I know about you! Oh, don't worry, I won't tell anybody. I'm a nicer person than I've ever been given credit for being. I play fair!"

Gordon smoked another cigarette before he went in Avis knew about him! Odd girl, Avis. Strong, fiery, yet tender at times. They had had many tender moments.

NO SURRENDER

He smiled in bitter amusement. He had come to Northwood looking for peace and quiet. Instead he was not only complicating his already complicated life but he was drawing others into it.

He had thought by bringing Constance tonight Avis would be jealous, that jealousy would make her afraid and perhaps tender, and in a tender mood he would ask her to marry him. But he had been wrong.

Tossing the cigarette to the lawn he thought, "I'm messing this up badly. I'm playing a rotten game." But it was a game he had begun and he had to see it through to the end.

Going in, he looked for Constance, and danced with her again.

Close to him, feeling his arms around her, she was confused and afraid again. But confusion and fear had been growing in her since that rainy night.

What was happening to her? The throbbing music would not let her think clearly. She felt stirred and excited. By Gordon? Oh, no, no! But the excitement of tonight made Terry remote. She could not keep him close tonight.

"I'll write to him when I get home no matter how late it is and that will bring him close."

"Having a good time?" he asked.

"A wonderful time." If Rosalind had not snubbed her and avoided her..

"We'll have to do this often," he said.

But she knew she would refuse his next invitation and next Saturday she would drive the hundred miles to the camp to be with Terry. Moonlight on the river and pine trees, he had written. How much more satisfying they were than dancing in a warm, crowded country club ballroom with people with whom she did not belong!

"LOOK AT ME."

"Constance, look at me."

She did not know that she was lifting her lips for his kiss. And her first impulse was to pull away. But she could not pull away. Something stronger than she was, something stronger than anything she had ever felt before, kept her there. And because her eyes were closed he could not see the tears on her lashes.

No use to fight any more, she thought. No use to call it confusion and fear. She knew. She knew...with her heart breaking...

"You love me, Constance."

Now she did move away and the tears were shining in her eyes.

He asked, "Where are you going?"

"I'm going to ask Van to take me home. Please, please don't come with me."

His eyes followed the tall silver heels to the clubhouse. But his black eyes were not amused at this because in the deep troubled waters of his tangled life, he knew he had engulfed her . . .

"YOU LOVE ME, CONSTANCE," Gordon said. Her lips moved toward his. She knew she loved this handsome man. Yet, loving him, she felt that she did not love Terry Cannon less.

Not daring to glance back, she went directly to the clubhouse. She wished she could run without causing a scene. Yet she felt weak and shaking.

"Oh, no, don't let me admit it! It isn't true that I'm in love with Gordon! It can't be! I'll fight against it!" Her head ached. She wanted to cry until she had neither strength nor tears left.

The veranda was crowded. In the darkness she saw the bright ends of glowing cigarettes and heard mixed voices. In all this crowd where was Van? She had to find him!

Ever after she was grateful that Van stepped from the veranda into the light and said, grinning down at her, "I've been looking all over the place for you. Let's dance. My wife is too popular. I've only danced with her once tonight."

"Home? Aren't you having a good time? Oh, come on. Let's dance. It isn't late. Where's Gordon?"

"My head aches terribly." She tried to smile. "I'm not used to big events like this. I mean it. I really want to go home."

He lowered his voice. "Is anything wrong?"

She laid her hand on his sleeve. "Please don't ask me any questions and please take me home."

"SHE WAS WEAK!"

His eyes puzzled, he said, "Sure. Get your coat and I'll meet you here in five minutes."

"Thank you."

Several times he glanced at her anxiously as the car rolled rapidly over the country road toward Northwood. But he did not question her. Probably she and Gordon had quarreled. It wasn't any of his business.

Before her home she spoke for the first time.

"Don't bother to come up to the porch with me, Van. I'm all right. Go back to the club to Rosalind. She won't know where you went."

"No. Thanks for bringing me home."

She went in quietly. In her room, with the one white lamp on the dressing table burning, she stood in the center of the floor and covered her face with her hands. And soon the palms of her hands were wet.

This room had been the center of her dreams and thoughts since childhood. In it she had said Terry's name over and over since she had been a little girl. Now—now she thought of him with guilt tearing her to pieces! She was weak!

Her love for Terry had failed in a test. She was unworthy of his love for her. She thought, "I can't think about it. I'll go crazy. I never dreamed that this could happen to me. What shall I do?"

But she knew she had to think about it and face it—now. You could not run away from anything. You could not run away from yourself. You could lie to yourself as she had been doing for days, but sooner or later you had to look at the truth.

THE BITTER TRUTH

The truth . . . She took her hands away from her face, threw off her white coat, went to the chair by the window and sat down. But she was not seeing the familiar room.

She was back at the club beside the pool, and Gordon's arms were around her, and he was kissing her. That was the truth she had to face! Under her breath she said, "I'm in love with Gordon," as if she could not believe it even after she had said it.

"I've been falling in love with him all along, fighting it, kidding myself, I wanted him to kiss me! I wanted to look lovely tonight for him!" And she knew that she would want him to kiss her again and that after tonight she would want to look lovely only for him . . .

Terry . . . "But I still feel the same about him. I don't understand that. How can I feel the same about him when I'm in love with Gordon? And yet I do feel the same. If he'd come in now, I'd be happy to see him. But ashamed . . . oh, how ashamed . . . I—I don't love Terry less. I love Gordon more."

All night she sat in the chair by the window, thinking. And after a long time she knew what she must do. Her love for Gordon was not a good love because it did not make her happy, because there were doubts and fears in it and because she had known it with her heart breaking . . . "I'll never go back to the Spanish house again," she thought.

"I'll never see him again. I'll get over it in time and Terry will never know about tonight and we'll be married in October. Next Saturday I'll drive up to see him and everything will be all right again."

And in trying desperately to be honest and in wanting desperately to preserve what up until now had been her whole world, she did not realize that she was not only helpless in this thing that had happened to her but that she was lying to herself again.

Her mother, thinking she was asleep, did not call her for church. Constance heard her parents go downstairs and later, when sunlight flooded her room, she heard them go out.

GORDON CALLS

She was wearing a printed linen smock when she came downstairs just as the telephone in the hall rang shrilly. She stopped still. Should she answer it? Should she tell him? She away from him she could tell him.

"Constance?" Gordon asked.

She felt weak. "Yes."

"Are you alone?"

"Yes. Mother and Father went to church."

"Then I'm coming in to see you. I've got to see you. Oh, I'm not angry about you're leaving last night. Probably a good thing. But I've got to see you and talk to you."

"I can't see you," Gordon. I'm not going to see you any more. And I won't be there tomorrow. Good-by."

And rang off and put her bright head in her arms and cried again—cried because she knew she loved him not as she had always loved Terry but unreasonably and madly.

In the study of the Spanish house Gordon replaced the telephone on the hook and thoughtfully tapped the ashes of the cigarette in a brass tray. How unhappy she had sounded! Poor Constance. Lovely, golden-haired girl who loved him and wished she didn't!

"I wonder," he thought, "how she'd feel if she knew I wanted to see her this morning and tell her to forget me and last night and stick by the boy she thought she loved before I came on the scene."

Putting the cigarette between his lips again, frowning at the smoke in his eyes, he dialed Avis' number.

In the blue kitchen Constance was drying the breakfast dishes. Her mother had asked eager questions about last night and especially about Rosalind. Constance thought, "I'd almost forgotten that Rosalind avoided me."

Her hands in soapy water, Ruth Darby did not look up.

"Have you, dear?" she asked quietly. "Well, then, I wouldn't look for another job. The weather will be terribly hot soon and you could only take a temporary job anyway. We'll manage about your wedding and clothes. We'll do the best we can."

How long does it take to stop loving someone who turned your world upside-down, Constance wondered? How long would it be before her world was solid and safe and secure again?

As the day dragged on, she thought of Terry less and a hundred times that day she was in Gordon's arms beside the pool in the darkness.

A hundred times she heard him say, "You love me, Constance." It was maddening.

And after two days it was still no better.

McCormack's Brother Joins Radio Tenors

By N. F. T.

Tenors don't come often in pairs to one family, but a mighty fine one started a series on the air (WAAB) in New York this morning and came through at 11:45 a. m. He is James McCormack, brother of the renowned John.

This comes to ight with word also that James has been singing for the "mike" quite awhile as Jim Barry, because he didn't hanker to be known for or be considered one to ply his profession on the strength of his brother's fame.

Peeking at long time radio records don't overlook the "Hoosier Hot Shots" with Uncle Ezra and "National Barn Dance" programs. They've been together as a musical unit for 15 years.

Irene Beasley

Al Pearce "the Walt" he Fun Guy" fellow, hooks up with the head of the professional escort bureau named Ted Peckham, who provides company for lonesome lady visitors to New York and now lists some 600 Yale, Harvard and Princeton chaps to call upon. Al is asking Ted all about it for listeners (WEEI) at 9 o'clock tonight. Irene Beasley has a singing guest turn, too, on the Pearce program.

Hearing Edwin C. Hill in the evening again will be good and his new air assignment is set to start May 4 for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday featuring (WNAC) after that time 7:45 to 7:45 p. m.

Whistlers who did the "Seven Dwarfs" hit in the Disney film classic will tweet-tweet some for Al Jolson this evening (WEEI), from 8:30 p. m.

When a "tough guy" he is broadcast by Edward G (Little Caesar) Robinson, he makes his "adversary" stay at the microphone, although most characters leave when they say a piece. Ed says he needs a live target to "blast" effectively.

Most abundant of all program inquiries in hand is about "Molly" of the "Fibber McGee" feature and when she will return. Medical men attending her are unable to even venture an expression on it at this writing.

Haney Views Motor Setup As Depressing

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

Special to Boston American

NEW YORK, April 26 -According to some composite indexes, business activity a week ago sank to a new low level for this depression. This means the lowest since 1934. The decline, however, was small, and the weekly indexes are so inexact that one must not take them too seriously.

One sure thing is that the industry and business have not been showing the usual spring rise, and this probably warrants considerable doubt as to the amount of any recovery that may come between now and fall.

Some constructive action has occurred at Washington, and the political situation affecting business looks better. The main trouble in this respect lies in the grudging attitude of the administration.

STIMULANTS INEFFECTIVE

Bluntly put, the stimulants being administered by the administration are having little effect, for the reason that so many people do not trust the purposes and methods of the New Dealers.

This condition seems likely to prevail until something more positive is done to convince the well-fed and well-clothed two-thirds that there is no scheme to fatten them for slaughter later on.

The steel industry, as usual, is so fundamental that it gives the truest picture of the whole crucial capital-goods situation. It is dull and backward at a level not much above the low of the current depression.

At present, no signs of an increase in steel buying are apparent.

Most depressing of all, however, is the automobile situation. Just now, the industry is half dead, anyhow, and a series of strikes reduce both wage earnings and profits.

HURT CAUSE OF LABOR

In the long run, these ill-timed labor disturbances will injure the cause of labor. Meanwhile they hurt general business.

Commodity prices averaged a trifle lower last week, declines occurring in steel scrap, tin, grain, cotton, raw sugar, and wool.

But I am hopeful that as confidence increases, the basic raw material markets will lead the way back to prosperity and employment for labor and capital.

5 Forces Working For U.S. Recovery

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

An extremely pessimistic reader wants to know the reasons for our persistent belief business improvement will come by the end of the year. There are five undeniable, fundamental forces working for ultimate recovery.

First is the fact physical production is now in line with subnormal new demand. Second is the existence in many directions of a replacement demand that is constantly being added to by postponement of needed goods buying. Next comes steady betterment of the inventory situation after the excesses of 1937. Fourth we list deflation of raw material costs, which now range from 15 to 20 per cent under a year ago.

Market Slump

Stocks failed in an attempt to rally in today's market and a late sell-off brought losses of one to more than three points.

	Last	Chg
American Can	84¼	— 3½
Am Telephone	128½	— ⅜
Bethlehem Steel	47	— 1½
Chrysler	42⅝	— 1⅞
Douglas	45	— ⅞
General Electric	33⅞	— 1¼
General Motors	30½	— 1½
Kennecott	[illegible]	— 1½
U. S. Steel	45¾	— 1½
Westinghouse	71½	— 1¼

Fifth and final consideration is the effort being made to bolster the economic structure through the medium of inflationary gestures. These incidentally have already led to surveys of purchasing agent views in New York and the impression gained that there is some fear of becoming understocked.

Bits O' Gossip: Aluminum Limited, on the curb, is said to be booked to capacity well into the third quarter . . . About 25 per cent of the orders are believed to be for war material contracts . . . Declines in Climax Molybdenum domestic sales rumored as more than offset by foreign sales . . . Pittsburgh Plate Glass paint division said to be doing well . . . But glass not so well with customer inventory situation unencouraging.

STOCK MARKET VOLUME.

There has been a lot of talk to the effect recent downturns in the market have not been accompanied by enough volume to make them authoritative. Possibly, but I want to remind readers that in this bear market volume did not pick up until declines had progressed quite a way. The net result was that many people who insisted in placing too much emphasis on volume were locked in at high levels.

The stock market isn't showing a thing of positive value to forecasters. Wishy washy performances disregarding both good and bad news make the lot of those trying to fathom its future an unhappy one. We have declared for cash holdings and see nothing to warrant a change of heart. When a definite trend puts in an appearance we will go with it, but no guessing nor allowing of hopes to dictate in the meantime is the watchword.

Austen Lake Says:

Infection Pins Casey for First Fall

AUSTEN LAKE

As a group, the wrestlers are exposed to a wider variety of microbes and injuries than any rival sport vocation, even boxing and hockey, which take heavy toll of cripples and martyrs. So that on his perigrinations each wrestler carries a medical kit, including bottles of silver nitrate, copper sulphate pencils, patent salves and sanitary lotions with which they smear and dose themselves in their locker room clinics.

Trachoma Real Mat Champion

As in Casey's case, the wrestlers' main dread is infection from the unsanitary mats on which they toil, or from the contagions to be contracted from the intertwined, perspiring body of some rival. I have listened to Stanley Stasiak and Jim Browning, both long since dead from streptococcus germs, recite their surgical experiences after strips of their personal bark had been gouged off, or silver-wires had been spliced into their bones.

Not so long since Strangler Lewis took me on a tour of his wrestling scars, rising in the grill room of an uptown hotel and in the manner of a great tragedian displaying a filigree of old wounds and spidering scars. His eyes, like those of most veteran wrestlers were small and inflamed from old encounters with trachoma, an eye disease which originated in Asia and was brought to America by Chris Jordan 21 years ago after a wrestling tour of India.

Trachoma's virulent germ has spread rapidly from the moist trickles of the infected wrestlers until today there are few in the profession who have not contracted the disease at least once, imparting it in a never ending circle, one to the other. They tell me it is a most painful ailment too, causing granulations and sores inside the lids and requiring long, agonizing treatment with caustic sulphates which burn the infection away. Thus each wrestler drops copious dabs of blue-ointment into his eyes and smears the sockets with medicated vaseline before matches. Until, in late years, the epidemic is gradually coming under control.

Where the Cauliflower Grows

AND THE CAULIFLOWER EARS, WHICH are the badges of the mat industry, are said by their wearers to be more agonizing in the making than a mouthful of ulcerated teeth. I have heard Danno O'Mahony, the ex-West Cork farm boy, tell how his left ear was doubled under one of the late Jim Browning's head scissors until he felt the cartilage cracking slowly with a knife-like pain and an amplified noise like popping corn against his ear drums.

For cauliflowers are incurred by the breaking of the fibre tissue, allowing the blood to flood into the member until it swells like a red exit light and, before healing into a hard fungus-knot of coagulated blood, is sensitive to the touch. Most of the older school welcome this deformity as one of inherent risks of the profession, which, once experienced, makes them immune. But the younger breed are taking precautions, spending pre-match hours in limbering their flaps with penetrating oils, or rushing to a surgeon when their ears are injured to have the member lanced and the congestion drained.

Most sinister enemy of all is the streptococcus, germs that look like connected lengths of bamboo under a microscope. Of the many types hemolytic is the worst. Mat burns make a handy form of entrance and the action on finely trained bodies is swift. It was a year ago that Count Pulaski skinned a little smidgon off his instep and within a week was lying near the shadow with his leg cut like a jigsaw puzzle. Though he recovered his career was ended.

No Pain in a Knockout

THE WRESTLERS SUFFER MORE MAGNIFICENTLY than the fighters, for all the operatic hokum which takes place on the mat. For their ailments are more poignant than being knocked out with a full roundhouse bust to the chin, from which there is no sensation other than a gradual awakening from a fistic anesthesia with brief brain torpors. Fighters confess that their most excruciating pain comes from having monsoil powder tweezed out of their eye-brow wounds, an operation which is done with forceps after the anti-bleed granules have caked deep in the cut.

There was a little drain tube thrust into Casey's knee today, like the spigot tap which Vermont farmers drive into maple trees. And when I left Crusher, lying amid his hospital odors and white linens, he thought, if infection didn't leave him a stiff joint, he might be up and about his livelihood in another month.

Osty Looks Good For 30 Victories

By JOE CASHMAN

WASHINGTON, April 26 — It could happen only in baseball. One more win and Freddie "Fritz" Ostermueller will have hung up as many triumphs as he did all last season.

Fritz Ostermueller

And plenty of pitchers will be thinking seriously of having a bit of bone removed from the elbows of their throwing arms.

A wild, erratic and losing hurler during his first three seasons with the Red Sox and a complete flop last year, the veteran southpaw has the most remarkable mound record in the majors with the current campaign a week old.

He's pitched 15 successive scoreless innings against the Yankees and Senators.

All doubt as to whether he was really as good as he looked while holding the Yanks to one hit during a six-inning relief stunt a week ago was completely dispelled by the "Comeback Kid's" performance against the Solons in the Monday melee.

He galloped through nine frames, while allowing only four widely scattered singles and issuing but one walk to win 7 to 0.

Just one of the Harris henchmen set foot on third base and, except for two Boston bobbles, not an enemy would have reached second.

As against the Yanks, it was a slow curve, perfectly controlled, that made "Osty" so amazingly effective against the Nats.

Until he had his arm operated on last winter, Freddie never was able to get his "hook" over the plate. That's why for four years he was the club's greatest pitching disappointment.

He had to rely on his fast one in the "pinches," and hostile hitters

Turner Faces Pressnell At Hive

By BILL GRIMES

Now that they have won the weather man over to their side, the Bees and Dodgers are all set to open their initial series of the season this afternoon at National League Field.

Ray Mueller

The Stengeleers and Daffiness Boys from Flatbush were idle yesterday, due to rain and cold weather.

Manager Casey Stengel will send Jim Turner against the Dodgers today. "Big Jim" has one victory to his credit and, at this writing, is the only National League hurler holding a verdict over the New York Giants this season.

In the first game of the Bees-Dodgers Grapefruit League series down in Clearwater, Pressnell was opposed by Turner.

Big Jim retired after two innings, during which the Daffiness Boys nicked him for four runs on six hits, although three of them went down on strikes.

But the Bees were unable to do any damage to Pressnell.

The rookie worked four innings that afternoon, and the entire extent of the Bees' damage was a single to right by Max West.

However, that was a Grapefruit League contest. Pressnell was bearing down to make an impression. Turner was only endeavoring to get the feel of active duty.

So we'll see how Pressnell compares with Turner this afternoon, when the chips are on the line.

As Al Lopez is still ailing, Ray Mueller will be behind the plate for the Bees.

Young Mueller has been hitting well this season, coming up with three "blows" out of nine at bat for an average of .333.

Lake to Interview Feller at Dinner

Talk Will Go on Air

Austen Lake, Boston Evening American columnist, will interview Bob Feller, Cleveland's wonder-boy, over the air at the third annual NIGHT SPORTS FINAL dinner to be held at the Club Mayfair on May 9.

Bob Feller

This annual gathering of sports celebrities who pay tribute to the feast of New England's sports lore which appears daily in the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN will be better than ever this year.

Oscar Vitt, manager of the Cleveland Indians, took time out from his managerial headaches to wire Jack Conway, sports editor of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, that he will be present with his young mound master Feller as well as Julius "Moose" Solters, Earl Averill, Johnny Allen and other Cleveland regulars.

The Red Sox will be well represented by Joe Cronin, Eddie Collins, Jimmy Foxx, Jim Tabby, Fritz Ostermueller, Bobby Doerr, Pinky Higgins, Moe Berg, Joe Vosmik, Dee Cramer and Ben Chapman.

Boxing will be headed by Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey, former world heavyweight champions; Al McCoy, New England heavyweight champ; Sammy Fuller, Lou Brouillard, Georgie Martin, Tony Shucco and Ralph Zanelli.

Harvard Crew Opens Saturday

Harvard's varsity crew, led by "Spike" Chace, rated top stroke oar in collegiate circles, opens its 1938 competition with a race of a mile and 5-16ths against M. I. T. and Rutgers on the Charles Saturday.

The Crimson, launching its second season under the coaching regime of Washington's Tom Boles, looks for one of its best years, surpassing that of a year back when it bowed only to Navy, by a deck length.

Casey's Condition 'Satisfactory'

Dr. Martin H. Spellman announced today that the condition of Steve Casey on whom he operated for a knee infection on Sunday, is "satisfactory."

Thorp to Hear Eulogies Tonight

Friends Honor New Yorker

Tom Thorp, famous racing steward, football official and newspaperman, will be honored this evening by his legion of friends at a dinner that will be held at the Copley Plaza at 6.30 p. m.

Tom arrived in Boston from New York late last night. He is prepared to start his duties as presiding steward at the 57-day meeting of Suffolk Downs that opens on Saturday.

Tom Thorp

John Curley, athletic director of Boston College, has been in charge of tonight's dinner.

He reports great interest in the gala event among Thorp's many college friends as well as among persons interested in racing and in newspaper work.

In addition to acting as presiding steward at Suffolk Downs, Thorp will hold a similar post at Narragansett Park and at Rockingham Park.

For never before had a pitcher amounted to anything after having a knife applied to his salary whip.

In fact, the Sox bosses advised against the surgery, figuring it would wash him all up, and the only reason they didn't get rid of him as soon as they learned of the operation was because no other club would take him as a gift.

As it was "Fritz" was signed to a conditional contract, and he got that simply because the management didn't want to release him outright after passing $40,000 to get him originally off a Cardinal farm.

At this writing the unwanted invalid of few months back shapes up as the Sox best mound bet, one capable of winning 30 games.

7 Boston Boys On Hartford Club

By BILL GRIMES

Down in the Capitol City of New Jersey, the Hartford Senators, or Laurels, as you prefer, will open the Eastern League season tomorrow afternoon against Trenton.

On Friday afternoon next, the Hartford Laurels or Senators—reversing the order so as to avoid any suspicion of favoritism—will open at home at the Bulkeley Stadium.

It's been some years since Hartford has been represented by a team in organized baseball, despite the fact that it is a hotbed of enthusiasm of the greatest national pastime.

Eddie Onslow, who handled the Columbia team, a Bees' farm last season, will manage Hartford. The Hartford squad has been training at Evansville, Ind., for more than three weeks and, according to reports, the capital of the Nutmeg State will be represented by a strong aggregation during the coming Eastern League campaign.

SEVEN BOSTON BOYS

Tom Early, Roxbury; Bill Chamberlain, Milton and George Barnicle, Fitchburg, are members of the pitching corps; Stan Andrews, Lynn, and Frank Scanlon, Dorchester, are the catchers, while Ralph McLeod, North Quincy, and Eddie Urban, Roslindale, have annexed two of the three outfield berths.

Frank Scanlon, who is a product of the Boston park department, has been doing most of the catching for Hartford, as Stan Andrews didn't report to Manager Eddie Onslow until this week. Andrews was at Bradenton with the Bees and was not assigned to the Hartford club until the day the Bees returned from New York.

Early and Barnicle are right-hand pitchers. Early was with Scranton last season and Barnicle was enrolled with Beaver Falls. Chamberlain is a southpaw and was with Scranton during the latter part of the 1937 campaign.

Ambers K. O.'s Self In Gym Workout

The lightweight champion was working out in Stillman's Gym yesterday. He took a terrific swing at a punching bag, knocked loose the upper fastening, and the heavy chain which held it fell on Lou's head, putting him down for the count. He suffered two small scalp wounds.

Buddy Baer to Quit Ring

Physical Breakdown Given as Reason

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 26 (INS)—Buddy Baer, husky brother of the former world's heavyweight boxing champ, Max Baer, may never fight again for physical reasons.

Hoffman declared Buddy has been "internally ill for several months."

"No one seems to know what's the matter with him," Hoffman said. "The kid says he doesn't feel right inside and he doesn't act right. In addition, his teeth are loose. Whether his condition is the result of a fight, blows to the head and the stomach, I don't know and I haven't been able to find out.

FIGURED BARLUND IN TWO

"He wasn't fit when he met Gunner Barlund last month. I shouldn't have let him fight. I never have let a fighter go in when he's out of physical condition But Max thought Buddy would drop Barlund in a couple of rounds. Instead, the fight was stopped in the seventh when Buddy could no longer lift his arms.

"Believe me that kid will never get inside the ropes again until he has regained his health and is in physical condition. When that will be, I don't know—if ever.

"The trouble with Buddy is he never did any hard work in his life. Max was a butcher. He got plenty of real muscle by lifting big sides of beef. But Buddy never went through anything like that. I think I'll put him out in the fields for the summer working on a hay press. That would be the best thing for him."

Hoffman believes that Buddy's ability to stay seven rounds with Barlund, when he was out of both training and condition, proved young Baer "is a great fighter."

BROTHER MATCH OUT

"I think Joe Louis is the only one who would have a chance against Buddy if we can get him back in shape," declared Hoffman.

Asked if he would ever match the two brothers if Max were to win back his title and if Buddy ascends toward the top, Hoffman quickly retorted:

"Never! Why, there would be so much condemnation if two brothers fought that it would kill the fight game."

Buddy's health isn't the only thing worrying the Baer-Hoffman combine—it's the fear Max Schmeling, if he wins his fight with Louis, will pocket the title and scoot back to Germany.

Tech Class Crew To Race Green

M. I. T. will send its leading class crew to Dartmouth to row against the Indians in a feature race, it was announced today.

All four classes at Tech will vie in a quadrangular race, May 7, and the prize for the winner willbe a race against the rapidly improving Dartmouth oar pullers.

Waltham Vies With Rindge

The rained-out Boston Latin-Boston Trade tilt will be fought later in the week, the Boston school department announced. Other schools scheduled for Monday but rained out were: Revere at Cambridge Latin, Arlington at Newton, Dedham at Wellesley.

The interscholastic horsehiders have a field day this p. m. with no less than [illegible] contests scheduled. Also on the program are four track track meets, two golf matches and a tennis get-together.

Jack Leary

Brookline St Mary's, leader in the Catholic High School League, with three successive victories, treks up to Lynn St. Mary's this afternoon. The Wealthy Town baseballers, winners of the Catholic circuit championship a year ago, are expected to find little trouble in taking their fourth straight triumph.

Jack Leary's Waltham nine and Johnny Curry's Rindge Tech diamond forces are due to stage a merry scrap for the Suburban League championship. Both outfits have the punch to be up with the top high school contingents in the state.

Newton and Cambridge Latin are other Suburban organizations which should field better-than-average diamond machines.

Looks as if a schoolboy track war might break out with the 16th annual Worcester interscholastics at Worcester Polytech and the second annual Harvard relays at the Harvard stadium, both listed for Saturday. Just now both sponsoring groups seem to be finding lots of difficulty in getting schools to enter their respective meets.

And just in case you might be interested in figures, there are 205 schoolboy baseball games this week, 18 track meets, 14 tennis matches and 10 golf meetings. Yes indeed, it's a real busy week for the high school kids.

Terry Speaks

Dodgers Good Team

NEW YORK, April 26 (INS) — Manager Bill Terry of the Giants has changed his tune

He was on record today with the this statement

"The Brooklyn Dodgers have a good ball club. Dolph Camilli at first base and Leo Durocher at shortstop make a big difference. Durocher, especially, is a big help to the young infielder."

It will be recalled that in 1934 when some one asked him what he thought of the Dodgers, he replied: "The Dodgers? Are they still in the league?"

By JACK CONWAY

AN EAST wind came in off the Atlantic Ocean and smacked me between the eyes as I started a tour of inspection of Suffolk Downs in the company of General Manager Jim Linnehan and Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club.

Mr. Boston

I stepped back a couple of feet as if hit by Joe Louis' best Sunday punch.

"We are rooting for warm weather for Saturday when we start our 57-day race meeting," declared Linnehan. "I want to show you our pansy beds, and our winner's circle."

The pansy beds are located in the rear of the grandstand. I am not well versed enough about flowers to know whether pansies are helpful when one is studying Dave Wilson's form on the races.

There were dozens of these pansy beds, and possibly arrangements may be made by which the losers will be permitted to pick a bunch of flowers on their way home.

Linnehan directed the way to the edge of the track in front of the grandstand. The judges' stand has been removed, and near its old location has been placed the winner's circle. Then there will be the spot where the jockeys will be weighed after their races.

The weighing ceremonies will take place under the bright sky and in the warm sunshine on fair days, while a canopy will be used on rainy days to shelter the little human mites who ride the thoroughbreds.

I agreed with Linnehan when he stated he thought the new setup would give the spectators a better view of the track, and also furnish them with some interesting and colorful scenes.

The most interesting thing to me at a race track," said Valenti, "is to have a $2 ticket on the horse that enters the winner's circle. I have become purely a $2 better.

New Method for Posting Odds

LINNEHAN pointed toward the totalizator board. He then told me there would be a new system of posting odds this year.

"In the past the odds board has been in relation to a $2 bet," said Linnehan. "If the price on the board was 10 to 1, you know you could collect $20 plus your investment of $2."

"I like the way you use that word investment," I remarked.

"Under the new system," went on Linnehan, " the odds will be as they are to $1. You will then know that you will get twice the amount posted in return if you have wagered $2."

I told Linnehan I had read that the stewards and placing judges were to operate from the top of the grandstand next to the press box.

"That is the system that has been installed at Hialeah Park and at many of the other important tracks," said Jim. "The stewards

I asked Linnehan if the jockeys were going to be equipped with wings so that they could fly to the top of the grandstand to make claims of fouls in case they wished to do so.

"When you mention wings, I think of angels," said Valenti. "I have been spending my entire life looking for a jockey who is an angel."

Linnehan stated that a room will be built in the rear of the upper part of the grandstand where jockeys wishing to make claims of foul may tell their stories. The stewards will hear any claims of foul immediately following a race.

"In another year we'll build an elevator which will take the jockeys to the judges' stand, but we haven't time to do this before the opening of our 1938 meeting," said Jim.

"There have been few cases of claims of fouls at Suffolk Downs, and I do not expect this year to be an exception."

Jones Camera in Highest Perch

WE CLIMBED to the top of the grandstand, passed through the press stand where 50 turf writers will soon be grinding out their daily stories of the races.

We then walked into the stewards' stand, and also took a peek at the place reserved for the placing judges.

The placing judges will be on the finish line. The exact point in the stand that is directly in line with the finish line has been marked by an engineer.

"The system of judging the finishes will be simple," declared Linnehan. "One judge will sit on a chair in the front part of the stand directly on the line. A second judge will sit in a high, bookkeeper's chair behind him, while the third judge will stand in the rear. A two out of three vote will call the finish.

"In the case of close finishes, the judges will call for a picture from the Jones camera."

Linnehan led the way up another flight of stairs to the highest perch at the track. This is the location of the Jones camera. The camera's lenses will sweep down on the home stretch, and follow the horses in the wild dash to the wire.

Louis Thesz Arrives For Robert Match

Confident He Will Get Title Back

By JACK CONWAY

Louis Thesz, sensational Hungarian heavyweight wrestler from St. Louis, is here for his finish mat battle with Yvon Robert which will be staged by Paul Bwser at the Garden on Friday night.

"Casey's injury was a great break for me," said Thesz. "It will not be long before I regain my lost title as heavyweight wrestling champion of the world.

"I am confident I shall win from Robert. Such a victory will compel Casey to give me a return match for the title."

Thesz was to work today at Kelley & Hayes' Gym. Thesz, young and colorful, is one of the most brilliant mat stars ever to show in this city.

Meanwhile Robert is setting himself up as world champion, and insists he will be defending his title when he opposes Thesz in the Garden ring.

The American Wrestling Association stripped Robert of his championship when he refused to meet Thesz after the latter pinned Everett Marshall.

"I refused to clash with Thesz at that time," declared Robert, because I was tired of the dictation of the American Wrestling Association.

"I shall toss Thesz in two straight falls on Friday night, which is a feat Casey was unable to accomplish."

Lawrin May Spring Upset in Derby

Defeated Bourbon King, Pasteurized in Last Start

(This is another of a series of daily stories introducing the leading three-year-olds of the American turf which will vie for honors in the Kentucky Derby, May 7.)

Owned by Herbert M. Woolf's Woolford Farm and trained by B. A. Jones, LAWRIN is rated a chance of upsetting the "advance dope" and winning the renewal of the Kentucky Derby . . . This black colt out of Margaret Lawrence by Insco was one of the stars of the winter campaign at Hialeah Park . . . He was sent to the post six times during the Hialeah session and was the winner three times, second once and third once for a total earned of $25,740 in purse money . . . Lawrin's last effort, February 26, at Hialeah, was a sterling one, which saw the Insco colt beating Bourbon King and Pasteurized for top honors . . Lawrin was slow in establishing himself as a handicap performer in his first starts as a juvenile. In all he was the winner of but three starts out of fifteen during his two-year-old career . . . Some termed him a "hard luck horse," after being second six straight starts, beginning August 2 at Lincoln Fields and concluding November 23 at Bowie. His final trip postward as a two-year-old was December 20 at Tropical Park, when he won in handsome fashion, beating Wise Mentor and Polyata . . .

Lightbody to Meet Gill in Relay Race

'440' Rivals Anchor Men At Harvard

By WALTER KILEY

These brilliant performers will anchor their respective relay teams in the feature varsity mile relay, which will also include Holy Cross and Rhode Island State among other teams.

Such a race has long been anticipated, the red-haired Eagle for the past two seasons having been king of the New England middle distance stars. Lightbody, son of a former Olympic champion, forging into the headlines with a series of spectacular and winning relay performances during the recent indoor season.

Lightbody's exceptional running accounted for victory over Yale in the B. A. A. relay thriller, for victory against Princeton and Yale in the Millrose games.

He likewise turned in two exceptional performances in the Intercollegiates, in which Harvard took third to Pittsburgh and New York University.

Harvard's mile team will be composed of Joe Donnelly, Frank King, Tudor Richards and Lightbody. King replaces Torbert Macdonald, the gridiron backfield star.

Three open events augment the relay program, the 100-yard dash, one and two mile relay races.

JIMMY LIGHTBODY

Gridiron Club Fetes Cowell

Bill Cowell, celebrating his 23rd season as coach and athletic director at University of New Hampshire, will be guest of honor at the next meeting of the New England Gridiron Club at Hotel Lenox, Tuesday, May 3.

Cowell is being honored for his outstanding contribution in the form of his mighty sports plant, a show place at Durham, N. H.

Canadiens Beat Wings in Paris

PARIS, April 26 (AP)—Les Canadiens of Montreal defeated Detroit Red Wings, 10 to 8, in the third game of the National Hockey League Clubs' tour.

A big crowd at the Palais Des Sports saw the Canadiens come from behind in the third period to score five goals and win.

Hall Dusek Faces Germaine at Arena

Hall Dusek, New York matman, will meet Ted Germaine, the rollicking grappler from South Boston, in the semifinal bout at the Arena tomorrow night.

In the main bout, Paul Adams, former world's champion, clashes with Pasha, the Turk, while the big feature of the evening will be an amateur contest which will include a policeman, milkman, truckman and sundry others in a battle for supremacy.

B.U. Bent On Beating Harvard

Still smarting under that opening day licking received from Harvard, Boston University will be out to even matters when it brings the Crimson out to Weston tomorrow afternoon.

The Terrier team that takes the field tomorow will be much farther advanced than the nine which faced Harvard earlier in the month.

Don Wright, reserve shortstop, has been moved to first base, and his batting has added much power to the Terrier attack.

Second reason for Terrier optimism is that Johnny Quinn, sophomore shortstop, has snapped out of his batting slump.

This added batting power plus the fact that Bob Leahy is just about reaching the form that made him the best college sophomore pitcher in these parts last year, gives the Terriers an even chance to upset the Crimson.

Harvard will use either Johnny Mahoney or Tom Healey against the Terriers. Mahoney worked the first B. U. game and looked fairly good except for control lapses.

Healey was hammered from the hill by Princeton Saturday but Coach Fred Mitchell may give him a chance to redeem himself.

Dartmouth Buddies In Reunion Here

His first trip here as a baseball scribe with the Brooklyn Dodgers offered Dave Camerer, who starred three years at tackle for Dartmouth, a chance to talk over old times with his class and team mate, Carl "Mutt" Ray of Lynn.

Camerer arrived in town with the Daffiness Boys from Flatbush. Soon after he had checked in at the Copley Plaza Hotel, Ray was trying to dig up some excuse to get away from business long enough to go into a huddle with another member of that great class of 1937.

CARL "MUTT" RAY

DAVE CAMERER

Camerer and Ray took a ribbing from the Dodgers while the former was introducing "Mutt" to the players.

"Lippy Leo" Durocher was in rare fettle, and the Dartmouth stars had to step on it to hold up their end.

'Biscuit Fit

Arrives at Belmont

NEW YORK, April 26 (AP)—Looking as if he was ready to run immediately, Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit arrived at Belmont Park to prepare for his $100,000 race with War Admiral, May 30.

COUPLED for Pulling Power

HERE'S WHAT YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR

Here in the combination of the Daily Record and Evening American, are two selling forces . . . each with a selling power of its own . . . coupled to keep your sales chart on the upgrade . . . coupled into one all-day advertising value that reaches people whenever they are planning to buy.

This new power, this new method, for selling goods offers you a large city and suburban circulation.

This is the largest daily newspaper circulation in New England—big enough to make a success of any major merchandising project, powerful enough to handle the heaviest advertising job.

And low enough in price to do so profitably. The combination of the Daily Record and Evening American, at the lowest cost per reader in Boston, is your best advertising buy!

Al McCoy to Fight Tommy Farr in Summer

NEW YORK, April 26—Joe Gould, manager of Tommy Farr, Welsh heavyweight, announced today he would sign the man who went 15 rounds with Joe Louis for a bout with Al McCoy, New England heavyweight champion.

Gould stated he has talked with Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club in Boston, who is anxious to promote the Farr-McCoy bout at Fenway Park.

Montreal promoters also plan a Farr-McCoy bout as a ball park attraction, and have bid $12,500 for Farr's services.

Gould says that if the bout is closed, Farr will delay his sailing for England.

McCoy has been in New York since he returned from Bermuda on his honeymoon, and has been training at Lou Stillman's gym.

McCoy says he will be ready to fight Farr on three weeks' notice.

Jockeys Warned By Suffolk

The iron hand of Thorp already has been used with the barring of five riders of questionable characters from riding here.

Indifferent and careless riding will not be tolerated by Thorp and the first occurrence will be investigated and a ruling will follow.

Four Days to Go. Horses are still arriving daily at the already crowded Suffolk Downs for the opening of the 57-day race meet Saturday. Here comes Eastport, already to make his backers' bankrolls a little fatter.

Metamorphosis. Fritz Ostermueller, Red Sox southpaw, who couldn't get anybody out last year, hasn't allowed a run in two starts this year. He pitched six scoreless innings against Yanks, then blanked Senators over regulation route. Some Red Sox critics have suggested that chipping elbow bones and then operating might be a good idea for some of the rookies.
